

FRAUD INDICATED IN PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION OF 1926

Testimony Tending to Show
Illegality in Paying of Poll Tax Given at Vane-
Wilson Hearing.

RECEIPTS ISSUED
WITHOUT CHARGE

Collector Says He Was Instructed to Give Them
Out and Collect Later
From a Central Source.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Testimony indicating that two office holders had directed a poll tax collector to issue poll tax receipts to voters without cost was presented at today's session of the Senate subcommittee on elections investigating the Vane-Wilson senatorial contest.

The contest was brought by William E. Wilson, Democrat, who charges that William S. Vane, Republican, was elected by fraud. Frederick Schadt, poll tax collector in the senatorial campaign of 1926, testified that Edward J. Connor, a Police Magistrate, and Michael J. Mullen, a Deputy Coroner, instructed him to issue tax receipts to certain designated voters without charge. He said he issued less than 10 receipts for which he received the money directly from the voters. He turned his receipt book over to Magistrate Connor, who a week later gave him his 10 per cent commission for issuing tax receipts.

Expectations to Challenge Voters. All voters not paying a real estate tax are required personally to pay a poll tax of 25 cents a year. Other poll tax collectors were examined, their testimony being along the line of that brought out yesterday when it was shown that many stubs in the poll tax receipt book contained various marks placed there either by the collectors or by political workers.

David Wallerstein, counsel for Wilson, said in reply to a question that every vote shown to have been cast on a poll tax receipt paid for by someone else than the voter would be challenged as illegal. John G. Loveyn, who in 1927 was a registrar and a deputy poll tax collector in a ward controlled by Vane, testified that he had been directed by a division committee to issue receipts without charge, making a mark on the stubs of his book in each instance, and that he would be settled with afterward.

During the testimony the name of John F. Lattich, an attaché in the Municipal Court and a Republican leader in the Fourteenth Ward, was mentioned by Loveyn as the man who would see that settlement was made. Loveyn did not say that the money was paid. Edward Kelly, counsel for Vane, opposed the admission of such testimony, declaring that Loveyn's statements were immaterial as they dealt with conditions a year after the contested election. Senator Waterman admitted the testimony provisionally when David Wallerstein, counsel for Wilson, insisted that the practice Loveyn described was a common one and that it prevailed in 1926.

TWO DENY AIDING UTILITIES AT CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

Andrew Scully and J. L. London
Refute Intimations Made in Letter by J. B. Sheridan.

Two St. Louis members of the Missouri Constitutional Convention of 1922, Andrew Scully and J. L. London, have denied they in any way served the interest of public utility corporations in the convention, as intimated in the correspondence of J. B. Sheridan, director of the Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information.

A letter written by Sheridan to B. C. Adams of St. Joseph was printed in last Saturday's Post-Dispatch. It spoke of Scully and London, with others, as men on whom "the utilities may count very heavily."

"The letter would seem to convey the implication that Mr. Sheridan had great influence with me and that he had something to do with getting me elected to the convention," Scully said. "The fact is that while I knew Sheridan and know him to be a representative, he never spoke to me about the work of the convention, nor did any other utility representative."

London said he had only a slight acquaintance with Sheridan, and had not been aware that he was representing the utilities. "I never saw Sheridan in the convention hall," he said, "and the only utility matter I ever discussed with anyone was one relating to the St. Louis County Water Co. The Sheridan letter places me in a false light, and I believe the same is true as to other members of the convention whom he named."

Injured Mine Inspector Dies. David M. Littlefield, 38 years old, a mine inspector, 1817 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, died yesterday in St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, from injuries sustained when he fell beneath a freight train at a coal mine siding on the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad. Both legs were crushed. Fellow employees worked 30 minutes in excavating him.

Democratic Nominees Meet

SMITH SELECTS J. J. RASKOB FOR CAMPAIGN CHIEF

Selection of Gov. Smith in 1925. He was widely mentioned as the probable choice for chairman of the Democratic State Committee last year. This was said in some quarters to have caused considerable disturbance among certain Tammany elements which feared that the Governor was swinging away from his former Tammany advisers and creating a new alliance that would mark his definite breach with Tammany.

In Effect an Executive Board. Selection of Raskob, Mrs. Ross and Lehman would bear out previous reports that the party would be led during the campaign by persons in absolute sympathy with the presidential candidate and that in effect they would be an executive board carrying out his wishes, he himself being the final arbiter on all party matters. The general expectation had been that Senator Gerry of Rhode Island would be Smith's preference for Committee Chairman and his reported switch to Raskob was interpreted as a concession on his part to the advice of friends and political leaders that it would be best to have a man widely known in the business world at the campaign helm.

Although Raskob served on President Wilson's industrial conference in 1919 he is listed as a Republican in the sketch of his life in "Who's Who in America."

Smith Breakfasts With Reed. The Governor, who came to the city last night by automobile from Albany had a general talk on the political situation after his arrival with Senator Robinson, the vice presidential nominee, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, who placed him in nomination at Houston. This morning he had as his breakfast guest Senator Reed of Missouri, whom he had invited here to discuss the political outlook.

Both Smith and Reed declared that their conversation had been general and that nothing definite was discussed as to the part the Missouri Senator will play in the campaign. Reed, in conversation later with reporters, said his talk with the nominee had been pleasant and had not touched on any particular subject. He added that it was unnecessary for the Governor or anyone else to ask him whether he would work for the party's success in the campaign, as he plainly had shown a willingness to do his utmost.

"I've been working for the Democratic party since I was 15 years old," remarked the white-haired Missourian, "and I intend to go on working for it."

"Organized Political Appetite." Reed then launched into an attack on Herbert Hoover, declaring he did not believe the American people were ready to name as their President so "shifty" a man whom, he added, had been converted to a Republican overnight "so that he could get into a Republican Cabinet and when he left there he was running for President."

"Hoover," he said, as he terminated the interview, "is an organized political appetite." In determining when Smith should be notified of his nomination and deliver an acceptance speech discussing the issues of the campaign, he and party leaders have been confronted with a problem of strategy. The Hoover nomination has been set for Aug. 11. If the Democrats, as is their custom, stand by until after that ceremony, it will be mid-August before Smith has his say to the country. Some strategists want him to fire the first gun, and are suggesting late July or the first week of August for his notification.

The date for appointing Senator Robinson formally of his nomination for the vice presidency will be about a week after that set for the Smith ceremony. The vice presidential nominee, who dropped off at Albany Monday for a chat with the Governor, came here yesterday with the suggestions that the Democrats should establish a regional campaign headquarters in the South to beat back what he described as an attempt by the Republicans to win over part of the "Solid South." Robinson came to New York with Jesse H. Jones, Houston financier, who has indicated that as finance director he will report to the National Committee that it not only starts off the campaign out of debt but with a $200,000 nest egg to finance preliminary operations.

Right of Upsilon to Enter Primary Questioned.

ATLANTA, July 11.—The announced intention of former Congressman Upsilon to work for the defeat of Gov. Smith has been made the basis of an effort to declare the dry crusader ineligible as a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Fifth District.

In a formal statement last night William Schley Howard, chairman of the Fifth District Democratic Executive Committee, said he would call a meeting of the committee to consider the question. "I will insist that the committee declare Mr. Upsilon ineligible as a Democrat under the rules of the State Committee," Howard declared.

checked out so that the day-to-day balance of the concern was usually less than $100. In one month, for example, there were 28 checks, more than one per business day, drawn to "cash" by Lindley as president of the company.

As an instance of the manner in which the firm operated, one file tells the story of its retention by a bank in Louisville, Ga., to collect a delinquent note for $150. A firm of Louisville attorneys, retained by the Credit Adjustment Co., collected the note and forwarded $140 to St. Louis, having deducted its commission.

That was in 1921. Last January the same firm of lawyers was retained by the bank to get the money back from the Credit Adjustment Co., which had never returned it. The bank is still waiting for its money.

Chilton has been able to find no figures to show what the daily average of payments to the company on accounts amounted to. In the two weeks in which he has been in charge, however, he has received $458 in small remittances. The receiver was appointed on the petition of the Finance Service Co. of Baltimore, a buyer of accounts receivable, which had drawn $1,500 in accounts to the St. Louis firm. When it failed to get remittances it went a man to St. Louis to investigate. On the day that he arrived here Lindley disappeared.

Officers Disappear. The Baltimore man was told by a stenographer in the office, a temporary employee, incidentally, that Lindley was ill in a hospital. He did not know where, but later it was learned, according to Receiver Chilton, that he simply had disappeared.

Heep, the stenographer said, was out of town. The tent had been paid on. The company had a formidable stack of bills for milk, insurance premiums, clothing, gas and electric service and other accounts on Heep's desk. The Baltimore company decided to appeal to the courts.

Chilton said he had been unable to find a trace of either officer. Heep had lived for a time at 11344 Lawn avenue, and Lindley had roomed in a house on Dotter street, but neither had left a forwarding address.

Creditors of the concern, whose individual losses are small, will be able to get nothing from the receiver, Chilton said, because the assets are microscopic. Post-office inspectors who have been interested in the case because of the use of the mails by the company in making an investigation of its affairs, but have had no definite action so far, towards finding the men.

STRUCK ON HEAD WITH WRENCH IN MOTORISTS' ROW

William Coghlan Suffers
Fractured Skull — Clarence De Montreuil Arrested as Assailant.

Charged with striking and seriously injuring William Coghlan of 6114 Idaho avenue with a monkey wrench in an altercation over automobile driving, Clarence De Montreuil, 4918 Potomac street, was arrested early today at his home.

George Elling, 7527 Vulcan street, and Coghlan were driving south in Grand boulevard last night when, at Hartford street, another automobile crowded them to the curb. Elling swerved his car and crashed out four blocks farther south, at Humphrey street, he was crowded again.

Stopping his car, Elling demanded an explanation of the other driver, whereupon, he said, a man stepped from the other car and struck Coghlan on the head with a wrench. De Montreuil returned to his machine and drove away. Coghlan was taken to City Hospital with a compound fracture of the skull.

Elling reported a license number which was traced to the Montreuil. De Montreuil denied striking anyone. However, police said he was identified by Coghlan and Elling, and that his car also was identified by Elling.

De Montreuil is listed in the city directory as a statistician for the Order of Railway Telegraphers, on the Eads Bridge, yesterday morning, he gave his occupation as "president."

himself up to death when Gen. Noble, inspired by faith, kept him from the empty ice and, recalling to him the rights of God," says the paper. "Two men, two conceptions, two opposed symbols—perhaps never will they find themselves confronted with so much contrast as the empty ice and the Atlantic navigator did not have the Noble at his side in the midst of the wind, did not hear the last appeal of faith, and died desperately without a smile and without glory."

Base Ship Again Denies Report That Motor Chief Is Dead.

OSLO, Norway, July 11.—The Italian legation received a wireless message from the base ship, the di Milano, filed from Spitzbergen at 2 o'clock this morning, denying reports of the death of Natale Cecconi, motor chief of the dirigible Italia.

A wireless operator from Bear Island said today that on the evening Roald Amundsen and the five men missing with him supposedly were flying from Norway to Spitzbergen he listened almost continuously for the plane's wireless, but heard nothing. The operator, who arrived at Tromsø today, sent out radio calls to the plane but received no reply. He also failed to hear the machine's motor. The weather was fine and the visibility good at the time.

The operator asserted that when the Italian flyer, Maj. Umberto Maddalena, flew to Spitzbergen, his huge Savoia-Marchetti machine was clearly seen and heard when it passed near Bear Island.

Bear Island is midway between Spitzbergen and Norway. Presumably Amundsen would have flown over or near it on his flight. In the district around the island has been searched in vain for traces of the missing men by French, Norwegian and other vessels.

MEMORIAL FOR LOEWENSTEIN

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, July 11.—An impressive memorial service for Alfred Loewenstein, multimillionaire banker, was held in the Church of St. Michael and Gudule today. A tall catafalque, surrounded by candles, had been erected in the nave and the choir was draped in black. Mme. Loewenstein, her son and other members of the family were present, as well as many persons prominent in Belgian life. Loewenstein disappeared and presumably was drowned in a fall into the sea while flying from London to Brussels.

BRITISH SHIP IN COLLISION IN FOG PUTS INTO LISBON

Royal Mail Liner Demerara Reports Both Vessels Safe But Damage Extensive.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 11.—Advisors to Lloyd's state that the Royal Mail steamer Demerara, bound from Liverpool for Buenos Aires, reported it had been in a collision in a heavy fog.

A message directly from the Demerara said: "Collision in fog off Lisbon. All safe. Both ships safe. Extensive damage. Proceeding Lisbon when fog lifts."

LISBON, Portugal, July 11.—The Royal mail liner Demerara, which was in a collision in a fog off Lisbon today, entered the harbor here late this afternoon.

ALL-SUNDAY OPENING OF DELICATESSENS VETOED

Mayor Says Proposed Ordinances Would Be Unfair to Grocers.

Bakers and Butchers. Two bills which would permit delicatessens, now legally open only from 8 to 6 p. m. Sundays, to be open all day, were vetoed today by Mayor Miller who declared the bills would work a hardship on grocers, bakers and butchers.

The bills had provided that butcher shops, bakeries and groceries should remain closed all day Sunday, as under existing law.

The Mayor also vetoed bills providing for the extension on small parcels of ground of commercial zone classification. Four districts now classified as residential. The grounds are at Penrose and Dryden avenues, Anselotti and Branch streets, Blow street and Pennsylvania avenue, and Loughborough avenue and Morganford road, respectively.

$32,000 STOLEN IN BANK HOLDUP

burglar alarms, the robbers searched the cashier's drawers and emptied the cash register, in addition to the sum taken from the vault. University City police arrested a suspect soon after the holdup and held him for investigation.

Herpel related that he was using the telephone when the robbers entered. He heard someone say: "Hold up your hands."

"Thinking it was a joke, he waited for the operator to complete his call, and someone added gruffly: 'I mean business. Put down that telephone.'"

Herpel looked up, saw a holdup really was taking place and complied with orders to lie on the floor, leaving the telephone receiver off the hook in hope someone at the other end of the line would hear the robbers' commands and give the alarm.

He edged up to the burglar alarm, in spite of warnings to keep away from it, and managed to touch it with his hip.

While the robbers were in the bank a customer entered, saw what was happening and started to leave.

The young man carried a bundle, which may have been the 30-pound package which contained the bank's stolen money.

The abandoned automobile, a Buick sedan, is thought to have been stolen. Its engine number is being traced. It bore an East St. Louis city license plate and one Illinois plate which had been issued to Jack Smith, 5114 North Seventh street, East St. Louis, a sporting company employee. Smith reported them stolen last Friday.

Coolidge's Physician Cures Sick Fish at Brule Lodge

Trout in Hatcheries Were Found to Be Suffering From Goitre-Like Ailment—Col. Coupal Gave Them Iodine.

By the Associated Press.
SUPERIOR, Wis., July 11.—Good health is so general at the summer White House that President Coolidge has assigned his physician to the treatment and care of the Cedar Island Lodge trout.

The fish in the hatcheries on the Lodge estate developed a strange goiter-like ailment that deformed them and sapped their vitality. The hatchery attendants were helpless and watched with dismay the growths swell on the trout's necks. It remained for Col. James F. Coupal, White House physician, to diagnose and cure the evil.

Col. Coupal noticed that the small trout in one of the vats in which fish of various sizes are segregated in the hatchery, had apparently hardly enough energy to move to get their food. This had to be bought for their mouths for them to feed themselves. The distracted attendants also showed him the bigger fish in other vats with the swellings on their bodies.

Nothing appeared to help the fish, and there seemed nothing more to do but to wait and hope for something to happen, when Col. Coupal became interested in the trout's state. He remembered about the thyroid gland, and how this would swell if the body of which it formed a part had to live in polluted surroundings.

He came to the conclusion that the goiters in the trout were due to the fish living in such crowded quarters that the water became slightly poisoned. To counteract this the trout's thyroid glands were obliged to work overtime to produce enough iodine compound in their organisms to enable them to live.

Col. Coupal called for a bottle of iodine solution. He dropped three drops of it into the vat containing the trout. Within five minutes the little trout, which previously had not had enough energy to fetch their food, were darting about full of energy.

He dropped five drops into the vat with the bigger fish and gave orders for this treatment to be repeated daily. Within five days the goiters virtually had disappeared. Col. Coupal explained this by saying that the addition of iodine to the water relieved the thyroid glands from the necessity of producing much iodine. The glands therefore decreased in size and the goiters disappeared.

One of the robbers escorted him to the rear of the vault and ordered him to remain there.

The other employee, whom the robbers forced to lie on the floor, were Edward Turner, a clerk, and Miss Clara Butler, bookkeeper, and Arthur Butler, cashier.

TWO INJURED PATROLMEN ARREST TRAFFIC VIOLATOR

Recuperating. They Were Out Uniform, and Motorist Told Them to "Call a Cop."

Motor Cycle Patrolmen Kennedy and Wessler of the traffic division, both recuperating from fractures of the legs, suffered while on duty, arrested a motorist yesterday afternoon for blocking traffic.

The patrolmen, not in uniform, were proceeding home in Kennedy's automobile from police headquarters, where they temporarily are assigned to light tasks. In the 4100 block on Forest Park avenue they encountered a machine on the wrong side of the street.

"Get on the other side of the street," said Kennedy. "You have to call a cop to make me the motorist was quoted as replying.

At the Newstead Avenue Station the motorist said he was Haywood Hunter, a salesman, 416 Herford street, Ferguson. He was fined today in Police Court for driving on the wrong side of the street, and appealed.

SAN FRANCISCO WELCOMES TRANS-PACIFIC FLYERS HOME

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Harry Lyon and James Warner, navigator and radio operator of the trans-Pacific plane Southern Cross, returned to the United States from Australia today and received a roaring welcome.

On May 31 these two flyers, with Pilots Kingsford-Smith and U.S. Australians, started a flight of 12,000 miles to Australia by way of Honolulu.

The flyers steamed into San Francisco Bay this morning, and dozens of planes circled overhead.

City officials and friends of the airmen clambered aboard the battleship when the vessel was moored at the pier.

At the city hall Mayor James Rolph Jr. officially welcomed the flyers home.

Lyon's mother met him here. She made the trip from her home in Maine. A purse of more than $10,000 raised by the San Francisco examiner, was given to Lyon and Warner.

Struck by Lightning and Killed. KEWANE, Ill., July 11.—Rosene, a farmer of Tampico, Ill., was killed yesterday afternoon when struck by lightning. Three others in the field were uninjured.

SIDENER DEFENDS RECORD BEFORE WOMEN VOTERS

Rival Candidates for Office Assail Him at Luncheon as Protector of Criminals.

FREUND CITES SPECIFIC CASES

E. E. Rudolph, Rebuked for Resorting to Personalities, Asks "How Can You Help It?"

Assailed by his opponents for his record during two terms as Circuit Attorney, Howard Sidener, candidate for re-election, declared he would "withdraw from politics rather than resort to personal allusions in a campaign," in an address before the League of Women Voters at a luncheon at the City Club today.

The five Republican and three Democratic candidates for nomination for Circuit Attorney had been invited to speak, and the first to take the platform, E. E. Rudolph, Republican, had launched into a denunciation of Sidener.

"The present Circuit Attorney seems to be in trouble," Rudolph declared. "He may or may not have earned the reputation the newspapers have given him. He says they are hounding him and he wants to be vindicated. I don't know whether he wants to be vindicated or validated, but I am sure he wants to be re-elected. I believe the newspapers have discredited him to such an extent that it makes it impossible for him to be re-elected. He has done so or not."

Rudolph closed his remarks with a reference to the five grand jury indictments of Sidener's office and Mrs. M. C. Spence, who was rebuked him for making personal remarks. "How can you get away from personal remarks in a campaign like this?" he retorted.

Points to His Record. Sidener followed, pointing out immediately that the voters had had sufficient faith in him to elect him three times as Prosecuting Attorney and twice as Circuit Attorney.

"I have never had to resort to any knocking to put myself in office," he said. "I have listened to the left-handed compliments of the left speaker and I leave it to you if that is the right way to conduct a campaign. When the time comes for me to conduct a campaign in that manner I will retire."

Sidener read figures, which showed 554 convictions to 33 acquittals in the criminal divisions of the Circuit Court during the last three months and made much of the fact that grand jury investigations of his office had resulted in exoneration.

He was followed by Arthur J. Freund, a former member of the Board of Police Commissioners and a Republican candidate, who assailed his administration of the office, demanding, "Shall organized crime continue to receive office protection?"

Freund Attacks Sidener. He laid two instances of alleged miscarriage of justice at Sidener's door: "A moving picture theater is broken into and police officers observe the thieves in the office seeking their loot. They lie in wait and capture the thieves as they emerge. The cases are continued 12 times in court and then dismissed by the Circuit Attorney's office because of the failure of prosecuting witnesses to appear although the police officers were in court."

"The thief had a record of 125 arrests. The place was the Columbia Theater. He was named Joseph and dangerous criminal and yet he evaded punishment because of the protection of the Circuit Attorney's office."

Cites Other Cases. He also cited the Union-Easton Trust Co. robbery. "The police arrested the thieves and one gave a complete confession," Freund declared. "The thieves were released on bond a few weeks before the time the trial was set, a representative of the Circuit Attorney's office came to Chief of Detectives Kaiser and told him the Circuit Attorney's office is about to release from his bond the man who had confessed."

"The case was called for trial, the man released had left town and the cases against the thieves must be dismissed. The man sent on his way before trial is named Joseph and the man freed of the robbery was Sibley, a brazen thief who boasted of his exploits."

"Mottow, Rutherford, Ferguson, Sibley, Russo and many other names are a shameful blot on the record."

Organized Crime Pays Dividends. Louis E. Miller, Republican, called attention to the steadily mounting cost of criminal law enforcement in Missouri from $8,700,000 in 1923 to $11,000,000 the current year. He pointed out that burglary and hold-up insurance had increased 100 per cent in the last four years, and declared that for every 25 robberies in St. Louis an average of only one man was punished.

"Organized crime," he declared, "pays the biggest dividends of any enterprise in St. Louis, considering the amount of stock in trade and capital invested. There are five times as many failures in honestly conducted business as convictions of criminals engaged in organized crime."

"We have seen great and powerful organizations devoted entirely to a course of crime not only spring up but prosper and prey upon the property and take the lives of our citizens. We have seen the public streets become the private battleground of gangsters. We have seen State's witnesses assassinated."

"What the Circuit Attorney's office needs today is action, a vigorous and uncompromising prosecution instead of a political patriarch, and repeated convictions of a few millionaire murderers and habitual criminals instead of innumerable acquittals. The time demands men and women and prosecutors who can stand before a millionaire murderer or a gang leader and damn their treacherous bribes without winking."

The remaining Republican candidate, William Robert Davis, retorted from denouncing Sidener and urged the citizens not to avoid jury service in order that the machinery of the law might be assisted by competent jurors.

Joseph F. Dickmann and Frank Miller, Democrats, cited their records. Dickmann as a former Assistant Circuit Attorney under Lawrence McDaniel, and Miller as a former Circuit Judge. Thomas J. Rowe Jr., Democrat, condemned existing police methods and declared the Circuit Attorney should be "a lawyer who can prepare an indictment that will stick, prepare a case for trial, convict the guilty and free the innocent."

Postmaster's Job. DRY PARTY SEEKS TO GET PINCHOT AND SWEET TO RUN

Telegrams to Former Governors of Pennsylvania and Colorado Ask Them to Be on Ticket.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Leaders of the Prohibition and Farmer-Labor parties, who have been attempting a fusion of the two, today declared they had approached Clifford Pinchot, former Governor of Pennsylvania, and William H. Sweet, former Governor of Colorado, as possible presidential candidates for a third party.

Both Pinchot and Sweet are ardent prohibitionists.

According to the convention spokesmen, telegrams had been sent the two men.

Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler of Los Angeles, president of the Southern California Women's Christian Temperance Union, today called upon the Prohibition party to support Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee, for the presidency.

Considers Third Party Futile. Mrs. Wheeler is a delegate to the party's convention here. "He said it would be futile to organize a third party movement, even with a dry Democrat heading the ticket."

"And why a dry Democrat rather than a dry Republican?" she asked. Mrs. Wheeler discussed what she considered would be the effect of Gov. Smith's election.

"Our Supreme Court is made up of nine justices; they are appointed by the President for life," she explained. "Some of these gentlemen are quite old. One, I believe, is 87. Because of their advanced age, the next President may name more members of the court than any President in the last 20 years."

She said only judge a man's future by his past. Gov. Smith has appointed 21 judges in his State; and every one has been a wet Judge."

Praise for G. O. P. Leaders. Mrs. Wheeler remarked that the secretary of the Republican convention was an outstanding layman of the Methodist Church; the temporary chairman a teacher of a man's Bible class; the permanent chairman the son of a Congregational minister; the chairman of the Credentials Committee, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, a member of the W. C. T. U., and the outstanding leader, Senator Borah, a Presbyterian—all bone dry."

Charles H. Randall of Los Angeles, once elected to Congress as a Prohibition party candidate, and author of many prohibition measures, wired the National Committee today recommending that the convention endorse Hoover.

The prohibition party delayed action on a proposal to combine with the Farmer-Labor group for this year's election. A resolution prepared by three representatives of each convention was tabled until after each faction had prepared a platform.

DECISION IN FREIGHT RATE CASE TOMORROW

Georgia and North Carolina
Shippers Fight I. C. C.
Order in Court.

A decision by the special three-judge federal court in the injunction suit of North Carolina and Georgia shippers to prevent the establishment of a new schedule of freight rates Saturday will be given tomorrow. The case was taken under advisement late yesterday, following arguments.

After the rejection of a motion by the Government to dismiss the suit, three hours was allowed for argument. C. E. Cotterill of Atlanta, Ga., for the Southeastern shippers, argued that the Interstate Commerce Commission had arbitrarily violated its authority and had exceeded the scope of the proceedings before it in fixing rates from the Southeast to the Southwest which he declared were oppressive to his clients.

Charges Discrimination.
Assistant Solicitor General Blackburn Esteline and attorneys for the commission and Southwest Chamber of Commerce argued that the rates were fair and that they had been established to correct discriminations against the Southwest.

Cotterill declared the commission had fixed the rates so that there was a high intra-territory rate in the Southwest; and a fair rate out of the Southwest into the Southeast, Northeast and West, "but that without rhyme or reason, giving no explanation or excuse, had fixed a maximum rate from the Southeast to the Southwest and permitted a rate from the Northeast and East which was much lower."

Cotterill also declared the commission had fixed rates from the southeast territory into Southwest Missouri and Kansas territory, which eliminated the Southeast shippers in competition in that territory, "a matter which was not before the commission at any time in the proceedings."

The Southeast shippers, he declared, had protested vigorously to the commission and had been told they had misconstrued the order which the commission held "gave them what they wanted."

"I cannot charge bad faith because I make my living before the Interstate Commerce Commission," Cotterill declared. "I respect them, but they have certainly put themselves in a sorry position in this case."

Rates Held Up by Court Action.
The new freight rates were originally scheduled to go into effect last Monday, but postponement was ordered with the filing of the injunction suit. Numerous affidavits of shippers and carriers of the Southeast and Southwest, the two vitally interested sections, were entered in evidence by opposing counsel.

Judges Faris and Davis of St. Louis and Judge Cotterill of Oklahoma comprise the court which sat in the case.

THREE SAID TO CONFESS PART IN $1,000,000 WHISKY THEFT
New York Federal Prosecutor Says "One of Biggest Men in Game" Is Sought.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 11.—Federal agents are seeking "one of the biggest men in the liquor game in New York" and when he is taken into custody he is expected to tell where most of 50,000 gallons of whisky, illegally siphoned out of Concentration Warehouse No. 1 at 45 Rose street, went and who received most of the $1,000,000 which the liquor would bring at current wholesale prices.

Six men have been arrested and yesterday Assistant United States Attorney Robert B. Watts said three of them had signed a confession. He said it had been learned that one of the arrested men, Frank Doria, a restaurant keeper, had obtained part of the stolen whisky.

A truck, loaded with empty barrels, was usually driven into the courtyard back of the warehouse. Under cover of darkness and with the burglar alarm silenced, men entered the warehouse through a window. A two-story siphon tube was used to transfer barrels in the warehouse to those in the truck.

Part of the liquor was sent to Harrison, N. Y., where Thomas Sinclair, formerly foreman of the warehouse, and another of the defendants, lives.

FIREMEN INDORSE CANDIDATES
Brotherhood Also Re-Elects D. B. Robertson President.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, in convention here, elected international officers yesterday and indorsed a number of Congressmen for re-election. United States Senators indorsed were: Johnson of California, Mayfield of Texas, Shipstead of Minnesota, Wheeler of Montana, Francis of North Dakota, La Follette of Wisconsin, Dill of Washington, Walsh of Massachusetts and Ashurst of Arizona. The convention also indorsed the candidacy of James D. Beck for Governor of Wisconsin.

The international officers elected included: President, D. B. Robertson of Cleveland, re-elected; assistant president, Timothy Shea of Cleveland; vice president, national legislative representative, Arthur J. Lovell of Washington, D. C.; vice president, F. W. Lewis of St. Louis. A. H. Hixley of Cleveland was elected general secretary and treasurer, and John F. McNamee of Cleveland, editor and manager of the Brotherhood's publication.

AD MEN PICK MINNEAPOLIS

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., July 11.—Minneapolis was chosen last night as next year's convention city of the International Advertising Association after a bitter contest. Charles C. Younggreen of Milwaukee has been nominated by committee as president of the organization; W. Frank McClure of Chicago for secretary, and H. R. Schwartz, president of the New York Advertising Club, for treasurer. Miss Bezel Ludwig of St. Louis was re-elected president of the Women's Federation of Advertising Clubs of the World.

COUNTY WATER CO.

VALUE $5,303,339

Service Board Fixes Rate-Making Basis in Case Pending Five Years.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, JEFFERSON CITY, July 11.—The valuation of all the property of the St. Louis County Water Co. for rate-making purposes, was fixed at $5,303,339 in an order issued by the State Public Service Commission late yesterday. The valuation case had been pending before the Commission since March 8, 1923.

The valuation as of Dec. 31, 1927, includes $5,285,000 for property used in the public service, together with allowances for intangible elements of valuation, and $18,339 for nonoperating property.

Officers of the company declared in hearings before the commission that the valuation was not sought for purpose of increasing rates, but for financing purposes, to take care of improvements and extensions. However, under the law, there is nothing to prevent the company from asking for higher rates if the present rates do not yield a fair return upon the valuation fixed by the commission.

The Commission order contains nothing relative to the rate of return produced by the present water rates, or the return the company is entitled to earn. The question of rates was not presented by the company in the valuation proceeding.

The order does not show the former valuation of the company, made about 10 years ago. A large part of the plant has been rebuilt in that time, and the valuation fixed is not comparable with the former valuation, it was said.

Rates now charged by the company in incorporated towns in St. Louis County are 4 1/2 cents a thousand gallons for the first 3000 gallons of water used, 45 cents a thousand for the next 6000 gallons, and 37 1/2 cents a thousand for the next 27,000 gallons. In unincorporated communities, the rate is 65 cents a thousand for the first 3000 gallons, 60 cents a thousand for the next 6000 gallons and 50 cents a thousand for the next 27,000 gallons. The company serves all the towns and communities of St. Louis County except Kirkwood.

In hearings before the commission the company stressed the theory of reproduction new, less depreciation, and contended the property had a value of approximately $6,200,000 on that basis. The St. Louis County League of Municipalities, which intervened in the case, contended the fair value for rate-making purposes was approximately $3,200,000.

Neither the company nor League of Municipalities submitted any figures on the investment cost of the property. The commission's engineers found the original cost, or investment cost, exclusive of land, with allowance for construction overheads, materials and supplies, and working capital, to be $4,500,000.

The commission found the reproduction cost at present day prices, exclusive of land, to be $5,361,000; reproduction less depreciation, $4,890,719; market value of land, $38,467; and going value allowance, $450,000.

While the order does not disclose the weight given each element, the valuation found by the commission for the operating property, $5,285,000, is very close to the reproduction theory. The reproduction, less depreciation, values found by the commission plus the allowance for land and going value, are only $142,186 greater than the final value fixed for the operating property. The Commission has stated in former orders that weight should be given to both the investment cost and reproduction cost theories.

CLAYTON ANNEXATION OF 1010 ACRES VOIDED

Court of Appeals Declares Acquisition of Area on West
Is "Unreasonable."

The annexation two years ago by Clayton of 1010 acres of the country residence district immediately adjoining it on the west was declared null and void by the St.
Louis Court of Appeals in an opinion today in which it was remarked that it appears the town's "vaunting ambition has again overleaped itself."

The decision, written by Commissioner Walter Bennick, marked the third failure of Clayton to annex the territory, which includes some of the finest homes in the county. The first attempt was made in 1916.

The most recent election annexing the territory, bounded on the west by Price road, on the south by Clayton road and on the north by University City, was held in February, 1926. Thirty-six property holders of the district who appealed to Circuit Judge Wurdeman, were turned back in their protest when he upheld the validity of the election. The appeal followed.

In reversing the lower court, the appellate court held that the annexation election ordinance was unreasonable in that the district involved got its high property value by reason of its proximity to St. Louis and not to Clayton, that its value would be depreciated by annexation, without corresponding increase in benefits, and that it was not adaptable to city purposes.

For those reasons, the court held,
the annexation election was "unwarranted and unreasonable."

Last spring Clayton made another attempt to expand by voting to annex the district immediately west of Price road. The residents protested so vigorously that the Clayton Board of Aldermen, by a procedure not to be found in any law book, set aside the election and the annexation was voided. It would have been voided anyhow by today's decision, which would have left Clayton without any contact with the district which is now Ladue Village.

BYNG NAMED TO GAIN CONFIDENCE FOR POLICE

British Home Secretary Says Aim Was to Restore Department to Public Favor.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 11.—Lord Byng was appointed Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police to restore to police and public the confidence which was said to be lacking "as a result of recent events."

This was disclosed by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, in the course of a debate in the House of Commons today raised by the Labor party on the appointment of Lord Byng to the post. Joynson-Hicks said that he and Premier Baldwin came to the conclusion that the appointment would be best for the restoration of confidence which he had been told was lacking.

The feeling that there was something wrong with the Police Department could not be allowed to go on, Joynson-Hicks declared. "But I don't believe there is," he added.

He concluded with an appeal for fair play for Lord Byng and police.

Report Upholds Police.

London's police are upheld, with certain reservations, in the majority report of the commission appointed to investigate the Savidge case, it is stated on reliable authority.

Majority and minority reports were forwarded to the House of Commons yesterday, but it is unlikely that they will be made public in detail before Saturday.

The majority report, it is said, holds that the police are not subject to censure for anything said or done in the interrogation of Miss Irene Savidge, 22 years old, whose arrest in Hyde Park on a charge of improper conduct with Sir Leo Money started the investigation. But the report will suggest certain modifications in police procedure where statements are required from witnesses whose personal characters might be involved in the inquiry. The report is signed by Sir Eldon Bankes, chairman of the commission, and J. J. Withers, a member of Parliament from Cambridge University.

Laborite Assails Police.

The minority report, filed by H. E. Lees Smith, a Labor member for Keighley, appears to challenge the basic conclusions of that brought in by the two other members of the commission. It criticizes the police in certain aspects of the case and rejects their evidence. Comment also is made on the extent to which the liberty of British subjects is involved in the whole episode and suggests that there are many matters of police administration urgently demanding the grave attention of the authorities.

The Savidge case, arising from Miss Savidge's arrest in Hyde Park on a charge of improper conduct, raised an important debate in British life, the newspapers and Parliament.

The charges against Miss Savidge and Sir Leo were dismissed by a magistrate, but later, it was alleged, Miss Savidge was called before two police officers and put through a form of "third degree" involving a "demonstration of what happened in Hyde Park."

The majority report of the commission rejects Miss Savidge's evidence of what happened during the inquiry and declares that the alleged demonstration did not occur.

10,000 IN STRIKE GATHERING

Textile Workers Picketing Nearly Results in Disorders.

By the Associated Press.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 11.—Activity today in the textile workers' strike here was at its lowest ebb in many weeks, following a night of unceasing picketing of the Kilburn mill that attracted 10,000 persons and provided demonstrations that at times threatened to result in disorder. Picket lines at the 27 mills affected by the strike were smaller today than at any time since the mills opened this week.

Reports from police and strikers concerning the number of operatives at work differed. Police estimates placed the total at about 40, a slight increase over previous days. The strikers on the other hand, credited about 60 with returning. It was apparent that the 28,000 strikers were standing fast in their determination not to accept the 10 per cent wage cut which brought on the strike. It is now in the thirteenth week.

$110,799 IN KIESER ESTATE

Mother and Sister Are the Chief Beneficiaries.

An inventory of the estate of Paul H. C. Kieser, 3552 Halliday avenue, who died May 27, shows property valued at $110,799. Specific bequests total $13,000, including $5000 to charity, and the residue is divided between his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kieser, and a sister, Mrs. Charles L. Weidenmuller. Kieser was secretary of the Mitchell Clay Mining Co.

Grand Secretary of Pi Phi. Elmer Oltman, 6024 Westminster place, son of Fred Oltman, assistant to the president of the Mercantile Trust Co., has been elected grand secretary of the Pi Phi fraternity. He is a former student at Soldan High School and is president of the Alpha Lambda Chapter of the fraternity in St. Louis. He returned yesterday from the national convention at Rochester, N. Y.

CREW TELLS OF STORM THAT SANK YACHT ROFA

Men Praise Only Woman Aboard for Aid in Keeping Craft Seaworthy.

By the Associated Press. BAYONNE, N. J., July 11.—Five men and a woman they called "as good as any man on a boat" were back on shore today, rescued at sea after drifting in midocean for nine hours in a dismasted and storm tossed yacht.

They were the crew of the $300,000 yacht Rofa, which was lost at sea 800 miles east of New York while taking part in the trans-Atlantic race for the Queen Victoria cup. The woman is Mrs. William Roos, wife of the yacht's captain who worked side by side with the men in clearing the tangled wreckage from the rolling craft, and trying to make it seaworthy after the storm.

They landed from the oil steamer Tuscarora, which brought them to port after their yacht sank.

The first squall struck the yacht at 10:15 o'clock on the morning of Friday, July 6, and both masts snapped at 20 feet from the deck. Mrs. Roos was on deck and she immediately turned to with the men to cut away the swinging spars and canvas. At 2:30 in the afternoon the deck was clear, although other squalls had been experienced and the yacht pitched.

Until 7:15 at night the Rofa drifted before Charles Townsend of Boston sighted the Tuscarora about five miles off. The sea was by then calm except for the swell. Townsend and Edwin Hotchkiss of Houghton, Mich., sent up half a dozen rockets and the tanker responded. Because of an approaching storm the crew of the disabled yacht was induced to come aboard the steamer. Early the following morning the yacht which had been taken in tow was torn loose during a heavy storm and thick weather. Capt. A. W. Hart of the steamer proceeded when he felt certain the yacht had sank.

The others in the Rofa's crew besides the Rooses, Townsend and Hotchkiss, were Walter Schoeler of New York, and Raymond Couce of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

BAR ASSOCIATION INQUIRY ON TRUST COMPANIES ORDERED

To Investigate Reports That Certain Firms Are Soliciting Business of a Legal Nature.

Investigation of reports that certain trust companies in the city are soliciting business of a legal nature, such as preparation of wills, handling probate matters and giving advice on subjects involving the law, is to be made by the Bar Association of St. Louis. Jacob M. Lashly, president of the association, has assigned Edward J. McCullen, a member, to make the inquiry and report at the October meeting of the body.

The particular object of the investigation, according to Lashly's instructions to McCullen, is to determine whether any trust company is representing itself as engaged in practice of law in violation of State statutes or whether professional work to be performed by lawyers is being solicited in violation of the American Bar Association code of ethics.

"My information is," said a letter Lashly sent to McCullen, "that these solicitations are being made by circular letters, personal letters, by advertisements in the public press of the city and in some instances by paid solicitors calling in person upon prospective clients in an effort to induce people having business of this character to engage the services of trust companies."

FARMERS' LIFE INSURANCE CO. BOUGHT BY ST. LOUIS FIRM

Controlling interest in the Farmers' National Life Insurance Co. of Chicago, with $42,000,000 of insurance in force and $4,000,000 in assets, has been purchased by the Insurance Investment Corporation of St. Louis, of which Massey Wilson is president.

Nine of the 16 directors of the Farmers' National have been replaced by men named by Wilson, including E. W. Merritt Jr., who will become president of the Farmers' National. Wilson will be chairman of the board.

The Insurance Investment Corporation also controls the Agricultural Life Insurance Co. of Michigan and the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Co. of Kansas City, Kan. The total insurance in force amounts to $20,000,000, with $12,000,000 in assets.

HANK WEEKE PAINTS OUT

NAME ON FIRM'S WINDOW

Says Sam Goffstein, Professional Bondsman, Failed to Comply With Agreement.

Henry L. (Hank) Weeke, Republican politician, who a year ago sold the H. L. Weeke Cleaning and Dyeing Co., 330 North Vandeventer avenue, to Sam Goffstein, a professional bondsman, yesterday out his name on the shop's window painted with black paint. At the time of the transfer, Weeke explained, he agreed Goffstein might operate under the old name for six months. Then the name was to be changed. Despite numerous reminders since, Goffstein failed to comply, Weeke said. "I just took a can of paint and blocked out my name," he said. "Nobody objected. Goffstein wasn't there. I was tired of seeing my name on the window, after I told him to change it—that's all."

UNION ELECTRIC AUDIT

ORDER APPEARS LIKELY

Public Service Commission

Meets to Act on City's Application.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 11.—

The Public Service Commission will meet today to act upon the application of the city of St. Louis for an audit of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. of St. Louis, and its contracts for purchase of power from interrelated companies, to determine if a further reduction in rates should be made.

It is likely the audit will be ordered.

When the commission last February instituted an investigation of the Union Electric's rates, that resulted in the company filing a schedule reducing rates for large consumers about $700,000 a year, the commission instructed the company to submit a detailed analysis of the effect of existing rates, and the allocation of distribution costs between the various classes of consumers.

The company has not submitted the data called for by the commission. Instead early in May, the company filed a new schedule of rates with reductions for the larger consumers. The information called for by the commission was designed to enable a check of the existing rates structure, and the distribution of charges between classes of consumers, it was said.

Without this information it has not been possible for the commission to determine whether the re-

POISONED BULLETS FOUND
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 11.—While the July session of the special grand jury was investigating the alleged union of crime and politics in Chicago yesterday, police uncovered a new phase of gang warfare—the poisoned bullet.

Detectives searched the home of L. Costello, 25 years old, suspect in the holdup, Monday night, of the Bernice Hotel. There they found a silk glove, each finger of which contained a revolver bullet filled with poison.

ASSAULTS WOMAN IN U.S. AT NEW SLATER TRIAL

Counsel for Man Who Served 19 Years Says Her Testimony Was False.

By the Associated Press.
GLASGOW, Scotland, July 11.—An attack on a witness now in America was the principal feature of the retrial, opened yesterday, of Oscar Slater, who 19 years ago was convicted of the murder of an aged woman, Miss Mary Gilchrist.

The witness attacked was Helen Lambie, former maid of Miss Gilchrist, one of the principal witnesses against Slater on his first trial in 1909. Her testimony was branded today by Slater's counsel as "not only false but unscrupulous." It was alleged that while every effort had been made to induce her to leave her home in America to testify in Slater's retrial, she had refused.

Slater, who was released from Prison last November on parole asked for a new trial, that he might legally establish his innocence of a crime which for 20 years he has steadily maintained he did not commit. It was through the efforts of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and two American attorneys, Hugh Gordon Miller of New York and William Goodheart of Baltimore, that Slater finally got a chance for vindication.

Slater was extradited from New York largely on the evidence of Helen Lambie, who identified him as the slayer of Miss Gilchrist.

Counsel's attack on Miss Lambie was interrupted by Lord Alness, Justice of the Appellate Court, who criticized the recent interrogation of Miss Lambie in the American city.

"I don't like this American procedure," he said, "and I'm quite sure I would not have emerged with credit if I had been a witness. I am referring to the incessant badgering to which the witness was subjected."

COLLET RECALLS DEFENSE OF HOOVER BY C. M. HAY

Asks if Opponent for Democratic Senatorial Nomination Still Stands on That.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RICHMOND, Mo., July 11.—James A. Collet of Salisbury, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, in a speech here last night said that when in 1922 Missouri Democrats assailed Herbert Hoover's record as Food Administrator because of the "unfair treatment of farmers," Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, Collet's opponent for the nomination, went to the defense of Hoover and denounced his critics as falsifiers.

"Several weeks ago I called Hay's attention to the fact that he was tied in with the Hoover Food Administration and an indorsement of it would be embarrassing to the Democratic party if Hoover should be nominated by the Republicans and Hay should be nominated by the Democrats," said Collet. "The only answer Hay has made to the charge so far as I have been able to learn was a whining cry of 'two wrongs make a right' and an appeal to the Democrats of the State to prevail upon Collet to cease discussing Hay's past record."

The embarrassing situation that I pointed out at the time has become all the more acute because the Anti-Saloon League, Hay's faithful ally, has given its unqualified indorsement to Mr. Hoover, has condemned and blacklisted Smith, reinforced Hay and assured its followers that they can depend upon Hay to stand firm and loyal in support of its cause wherever it is involved.

"I again invite Hay to explain whether his indorsement of Hoover still stands or whether he has changed his mind since becoming a candidate and has decided to stand by the down-trodden farmer."

"We have given 10 years' trial to prohibition as exemplified in the Volstead act and it has failed."

DETECTIVE NAJOB B. MOBRAK BECOMES JAMES B. MOBRAK

Police Department Gives Permission for Officer Born in Syria to Change His Name.

The name of Najob B. Mobrak has disappeared from Police Department records and James B. Mobrak has taken its place.

Najob, a native of Syria, came to this country 16 years ago and became a shoemaker, a naturalized citizen. Four years ago he joined the police force. Najob, a perfectly good name in Syria, evoked snickers in St. Louis, so the owner applied to the Police Board for permission to Americanize his name into James. Permission has been granted.

Detective Mobrak is 33 years old and lives at 2540 Hebert street.

HEAT DEATH REPORT DELAYED

Negro Succumbed Monday; Woman
Overcome on Street Car.

The death of Melner Hayes, 57-year-old Negro, apparently from heat exhaustion, was reported to the coroner yesterday. Hayes, a Street Department employee, who resided at 1537 South Second street, collapsed Monday afternoon and died a few hours later at city hospital No. 2.

Mrs. Elizabeth Key of 3761 Lacleda avenue, collapsed from the heat on a Laclede avenue street car at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

SPANISH GOVERNMENT GIVES

WARNING AGAINST 'INTRIGUE' Demands Punishment of Promoters of Disorder, Declaring It Is on Their Track.

By the Associated Press.
MADRID, July 11.—This official statement was issued in Madrid today:

"As in many other summers, and this especially, since both the King and the head of the Spanish Government are absent... an intrigue is trying to promote disorders, but the Government is already on the track.

"The best way to bring about the failure of these disorders is to have the citizens reprove it and those who are charged with keeping the public order should severely punish the disorderly elements.
All discipline is lost when those charged with assisting the Government fail to take strict measures to prevent disorders."

GROUP SAYS POLICE PROTECT GAMBLING IN NEW ORLEANS

Charged by Association of Commerce Committee.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—

Charges that gambling in all forms flourishes in New Orleans "under the protection of constituted authorities" and that in one specific instance, policemen received $6000
"within a short time" for their protection, were made by representatives of the New Orleans Association of Commerce before a special committee of the City Council today.

Ex-Senator Chamberlain Buried.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 11.—Former Senator George F. Chamberlain,
Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee during the World War, was buried today with military honors in the Arlington National Cemetery. He died at his apartment here Monday. The funeral procession was met at Arlington gates by an escort of two full infantry squads, a color guard and a firing party. Funeral services at the Wardman Park Hotel preceded burial at Arlington. The Rev. W.

RED SOX

Howley's

LOOSE FIELDING

TEAM RUN

STEWART

By Jack Alex

Of the Post-Dispatch

BOSTON, July 11.—The Browns' series with the Red Sox here

The score was 4 to 2. Inability to hit Slim Harris caused the Howley men's defeat. Only seven safeties were made by the Sox.

Walter Stewart, on the hill for the Browns, couldn't get the ball to the outfield. He was hit by a line drive. Stewart made three of the blows off Harris. One Brannon failed of an opportunity to pull some hero stuff when he filed out with the bases filled in the ninth. An error gave the Browns their third tally in this frame.

Howley received a telegram from New York today stating that Steve O'Neill, who was injured seriously in an automobile accident last week, was improving.

The game: FIRST—BROWNS—Myer tossed out McNeely. Brannon singled to Taft. Manush singled to left. Manush stole second. Schulte walked. Harris threw out Kress. BOSTON—O'Rourke threw out Flagstead. Myer singled to left. Taft hit into a double play, Kress to Brannon to Blue.

SECOND—BROWNS—Blue beat a hit to Rogell. O'Rourke hit into a double play, Gerber Rogell to Taft. Manush was called out on strikes. BOSTON—K. Williams singled to center. Rogell forced K. Williams. O'Rourke to Kress. Taft bled to Schulte. Gerber hoisted to McNeely.

THIRD—BROWNS—Stewart dropped a single back of second. McNeely bunted and beat it out. He was scored as a sacrifice and fielder's choice. Brannon sacrificed Myer to Rogell, who covered first. Manush hit to Harris and Stewart scored, beating a line drive to the plate. McNeely going to third. McNeely scored on Schulte's sacrifice fly to Taft. Myer threw out Kress. TWO RUNS.

BOSTON—Having doubled off the left-field wall, Harris sacrificed. O'Rourke to Blue. Flagstead singled to left, scoring Heving. Myer doubled to center, sending Flagstead to third. To hit to Kress. Flagstead scored and Myer was run down between second and third. Kress to O'Rourke to Brannon to Stewart to Maion. Williams hit to Kress and when Kress threw bounced off Blue's glove. Taft started for third, but went out. Kress to Blue to Stewart. O'Rourke. It was scored as a fielder's choice. TWO RUNS.

FOURTH—BROWNS—Gerber threw out Blue. Harris picked up O'Rourke's hint and threw him out. Myer threw out Manush. BOSTON—Rogell walked. Taft singled to left. Rogell stopping at second. Gerber singled to center, scoring Rogell and sending Taft to third. McNeely ran in fast and made a fine catch of Heving's low liner. Harris hit into a double play. Brannon to Kress to Blue. ONE RUN.

FIFTH—BROWNS—Stewart singled to left. McNeely hit into a double play, Gerber to Rogell to Taft. Brannon walked. Manush bled to Taft.

BOSTON—Flagstead singled to center. Myer fouled to O'Rourke. Taft sent a long fly to McNeely. K. Williams also filed to McNeely. SIXTH—Browns—Gerber threw to Schulte. Kress fled deep to Flagstead. Blue bunted and was thrown out by Heving. BOSTON—Rogell popped to

GOAL

Lightweights to Meet in Series Of Eliminations

CHICAGO, July 11.—Promoter Jim Mullen has completed plans for what he hopes will lead to Sammy Mandell's defending his lightweight championship title in Chicago during the present outdoor season.

Mullen has arranged for two elimination fights to select Mandell's opponent, the first step being the engagement between Jack Berg, English lightweight, and Mike Waters of California here tomorrow night. The winner of that fight will be matched against Billy Petrolle of Fargo on July 26 with the survivor later meeting the titleholder.

If everything works out as Mullen has arranged, he said he was confident Mandell would defend his crown here later in the summer.

Only 11 of 1927 Pirates Remain on Club Roster

NEW YORK, July 11.—With the passing of Johnny Milius, "goat" of the 1927 world series, only 11 of the 21 men Donie Bush used in a vain effort to beat the New York Yankees in that classic still are with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Milius, obtained from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League during the best of the 1927 pennant race, passed from the Pirate fold to the Cleveland Americans yesterday.

Nine others who saw service in that series with the National League champions have passed to other pastures. Earl Smith, the other catcher, was unconditionally released on Monday of this week. Joe Harris, veteran first baseman, and Johnny Gooch, the catcher, were traded to Brooklyn for Backstop Charlie Hargrave. Vic Alstop Charlie Hargrave, who relieved Meadows in the third game and saw Babe Ruth maul one of his pitches for a home run, also has been released.

Nor is that all. Kiki Cuyler, who "rode the wood" throughout the series, was traded to the Chicago Cubs during the winter, and Adam Comorosky, outfielder, obtained to fill Kiki's shoes during the 1927 season, but who failed to get into the fall classic, now is with Indianapolis.

Meadows has not appeared in a championship game this year because of a recurrence of the sinus trouble that for years has bothered him. Glenn Wright, the great shortstop of other years, has been sitting on the Pirate bench lately watching a kid, Bartell, covet at his old post. Whether these two are slated for release also, remains to be seen. In the case of Meadows it appears quite likely, but Wright should have many more good years of baseball in him.

$25,000 Derby For Pacers to Be Run Thursday

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 11.—The next big harness racing fixture, the $25,000 American Pacing Derby, will be contested over the historic Grand Circuit track here tomorrow.

With a crack field, representing numerous states and Canada, scheduled to go to the post, the event again has created a wide international interest.

Canada, which has sent many star pacers over the border, will have a good hand in the three heat races. Grattan Bars, owned by Fred Thrower, Kerwood, Ont.; Jean Grattan, the property of Robert Trench, Teeswater, Ont.; and Winnipeg who belongs to Jackson Bros. & Harvie, Winnipeg, Man. Grattan Bars is sure to rule the favorite. He erased any doubt about it when he won the $25,000 New England Derby at Windsor, Conn., July 4, taking such fast sidewheelers as Widow Grattan, 2:02 1/2, and Chattanooga, 2:06 into camp.

Berry the Great, owned by E. C. Wilson, Lockport, N. Y., appears to be the best hope for a United States triumph. He has won in 2:03 this season. June Abbe, the representative of the Calumet Farm, Lexington, Ky., and Black Scott, the property of Hill & Sprow, Sandusky, O., have shown enough to make one believe they should be in the thick of it.

BUD TAYLOR DEFEATS VACCA AND PLANS TO MEET FIDEL LA BARBA

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 11.—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., defeated Johnny Vacca here last night in a 10-round bout. Taylor weighed 122 and Vacca 118.

By virtue of his victory, Taylor will be matched in the near future with Fidel La Barba, who has announced that he intends to use his summer vacation from Stanford University as a means of temporarily returning to the ring. La Barba formerly was flyweight champion of the world.

Vacca holds two verdicts over La Barba.

Omaha Buys Schaack.

By the Associated Press.
OMAHA, Neb., July 11.—Purchase of Pitcher Eddie Schaack from the Kansas City club of the American Association was announced late today by Barney Burch, owner of the Omaha club of the Western League. The purchase price was not divulged. Schaack has seen service with the Milwaukee and Kansas City clubs in the Association. He is a right-hander.

833 AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS could be played off in DUNLOP CITY

THERE are 120 acres in the Brae Burn course, the scene of this year's amateur championship.

Dunlop's productive properties, if combined into one area, would form a "Dunlop City" of 100,000 acres—833 times as large as Brae Burn.

As a buyer of tires, you are interested in Dunlop's immense area—in Dunlop's $195,000,000 of resources, its 40 years of experience, and the 45,000 Dunlop craftsmen—for just one reason. You want to know: "Does all this make it possible for Dunlop to produce tires that are better than other tires?" It does.

Take just one example—cotton. Cotton fabric is the backbone of a tire's body. All tires—and balloons especially—must spring in and out of shape faster even than your heart pulsates.

Strong cotton is essential. But unless the cotton has extraordinary stretch, as well as strength, the tire is only an ordinary tire.

So Dunlop—with these great resources—pays a high premium for the pick of Egyptian cotton. Dunlop operates its own spinning mills. The Dunlop test fleet burns up over a million road miles a year—running much of the time with the tires at obviously low pressure, to make sure that the cotton has stretch, as well as strength, to an unparalleled degree.

These are some of the facts which make Dunlop tires superior to other tires. That the public can recognize the difference between Dunlops and other tires is proved by the fact that over 26 million Dunlops are in use today.

The tires which have received this overwhelming vote of confidence are the tires for you.

GOV. SMITH GUEST AT BOY SCOUT CAMP

Democratic Presidential Nominee Receives a Big Brown Derby.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Gov. Smith made his annual pilgrimage to the Boy Scouts' camp near the Hudson, yesterday.

The Democratic presidential nominee, for the sixth consecutive year, visited the encampment in the Bear Mountain Park highlands to the west of the river. He stayed two hours, apparently enjoying it as much as the boys. Before he departed he made a brief speech in which he urged American youth to build mentally and physically for the battle of tomorrow.

Gov. Smith found a group of influential men of the New York business world at the camp. They had taken the day off and had gone up the river to inspect the camp and size up the work done there. They were guests of Barron Collier, one of the leaders in the Boy Scout movement.

As the Governor and his party reached Bear Mountain Park at mid-afternoon a storm broke. It subsided, however, and part of the ceremonies at the Scouts' encampment were in the open, despite a steady drizzle. One of the youngsters' stunts was to present to their guest the biggest brown derby on record—five feet long and four feet high, and of their own make. In a serious vein they bestowed on him their highest decoration—a civic merit badge.

A "used car" is unused transportation

A GOOD automobile is built to stand years of use; but the average first owner trades it in after only two years.

This means that there are many thousands of miles of unused transportation which may be bought at a low price and enjoyed by the second owner.

While not all the cars that are now being traded-in are relatively new, among them you will find opportunities in cars whose intrinsic value is greater than their selling price—a fact which millions of families have already discovered.

Because of the great volume of new cars sold by General Motors dealers, their stocks of cars taken in trade offer a wide range of used car values. And the GMAC Plan of payments is available for the purchase of used as well as new cars.

BOARD VOTES FOR TRANSFER OF HEAD OF SUMNER HIGH

Seeks F. L. Williams' Removal From Post He Has Held 20 Years — Not Allowed to Face Accusers.

"PUMPKIN ROLLERS" BARRED AS TEACHERS

Blumeyer So Designates Instructors From Country — $12,353,000 Year's Receipts.

A controversy that has divided the Negro population of St. Louis for several weeks was resolved last night when the Board of Education, 8 to 4, voted to recommend the transfer of Frank L. Williams, for 20 years principal of Sumner high school for Negroes and principal of Sumner Teachers' College for Negroes since its establishment.

The Board has no power of removal or transfer and its action was a recommendation to the superintendent of instruction, who has not indicated his intention in the matter.

The vote came at the conclusion of what resembled an open hearing conducted by the investigating committee of the Board whose unanimous recommendation was for the transfer of Williams. The procedure in such hearings was interrupted. Williams was asked whether he had anything to say. He replied that he did not know the charges against him. The committee in executive sessions had listened to more than 200 witnesses for and against Williams. It did not make public the testimony of the witnesses and permitted other Board members to examine the testimony only after the names of the witnesses had been deleted. Williams said that he should be permitted to face his accusers. He reviewed his record at the schools and asserted that progress had been made.

Williams Called Agitator. When he had taken his seat, Pearl Cass Riddle of 4208W Cote-Brilliant avenue was called by the committee to read a long statement made in behalf of the Sumner Teachers' College Patrons' Association and the Citizens' Committee of St. Louis charging Williams chiefly with being agitator and but of sympathy with his faculty. Thereafter each member of the investigating committee, Dr. L. C. Todd, Mrs. Elias Michael and Arthur A. Blumeyer made statements in which they declared that because Williams appeared to be in turmoil constantly with parents and teachers, his usefulness in his position had ended. Dr. Todd said that of members of the faculty and former members heard, 21 had supported Williams, eight had been neutral and 19 had condemned his administration.

Facing something concrete in the way of accusation for the first time, Williams was not permitted to speak in rebuttal. He said that he had been known that such a hearing was to be held, he would have rallied his friends to present their views. During the evening the board received a petition in Williams' behalf signed by a score of well-known citizens headed by former Mayor Kiel.

John C. Tobin, in voting not to approve the report of the committee, declared that he believed that Williams was entitled to receive charges in writing to have a fair hearing upon those charges. If he did not believe a fair hearing had been given, Emil Barth and Henry Heiler supported that viewpoint and voted against the committee report as did Richard Murphy.

Harris College Report Approved. The board, however, unanimously approved that section of its investigating committee's report dealing with Harris Teachers' College. The committee declared that it found lack of harmony between the principal of the college and the superintendent of instruction and recommended measures to quiet that situation. The committee has not disclosed the findings of two Columbia University instructors brought here to survey the Harris and Sumner Teachers' Colleges, nor has it indicated whether the imported investigators approved or criticized the conduct of the schools.

The board indulged in its usual squabble with Superintendent Maddox over teaching appointments. Maddox for the evening was about even. Maddox lost two appointments and was supported in three.

The discussion about the appointment of Joseph Strickler, principal of a Duquesne, Ill., school, to be principal of a grade school here, brought the comment from Arthur A. Blumeyer that the schools had "too many countrified teachers already." He referred to them as "pumpkin rollers." Strick-

"PUMPKIN ROLLERS" BARRED AS TEACHERS

Blumeyer So Designates Instructors From Country—$12,353,000 Year's Receipts.

A controversy that has divided the Negro population of St. Louis for several weeks was resolved last night when the Board of Education, 5 to 4, voted to recommend the transfer of Frank L. Williams, for 20 years principal of Sumner high school for Negroes and principal of Sumner Teachers' College for Negroes since its establishment.

The Board has no power of removal or transfer and its action was a recommendation to the superintendent of instruction, who has not indicated his intention in the matter.

Williams said that he should be permitted to face his accusers. He reviewed his record at the schools and asserted that progress had been made.

Williams Called Autocratic.

When he had taken his seat, Parle Cass Riddle of 4205 W. Cote Boulevard avenue was called by the committee to read a long statement made in behalf of the Sumner Teachers' College Patrons' Association and the Citizens' Committee of St. Louis charging Williams chiefly with being autocratic and but of sympathy with his faculty. Thereafter each member of the investigating committee, Dr. L. C. Todd, Mrs. Elias Michael and Arthur A. Blumeyer made statements in which they declared that because Williams appeared to be in command constantly with parents and teachers, his usefulness in his position had ended. Dr. Todd said that of members of the faculty and former members held, 21 had supported Williams, eight had been neutral and 59 had condemned his administration.

Facing something concrete in the way of accusation for the first time, Williams was not permitted to speak in rebuttal. Flood Control Commission Settles Two Major Points In Method to Be Followed

Gen. Jackson Indicates Progress but Refuses to Predict When Final Report Will Be Ready for President.

Agreement on two fundamental facts with the other members, because he signed one of the two plans under consideration. The next conference may be held in Memphis or Vicksburg, but this has not been determined.

Danger of Reclamation.

The fundamentals on which the members are agreed are of major importance but this does not mean that the debatable points are settled. These two preliminary decisions lean somewhat toward the Army Engineers' plan. The principles, as explained by Gen. Jackson, are that levee heights should be kept as low as possible through reduction of flood heights, and that throwing a greater load on the main river by reclamation of land should be approached with the greatest caution.

Probably a dozen witnesses emphasized these points at the various public hearings of the last three weeks. Some contended that the present situation was largely due to ill-advised land reclamation, in shutting off the river from natural floodways or its natural back-water area. Both the commission and army plans agree that to restrict the great floods in the levee main channel is impossible.

On the other hand, while none spoke directly for increasing flood heights, some advocated smaller levees, which would have that effect. Many landowners or attorneys urged further backwater reclamation. Gen. Jackson replied once that the value of the backwater land had to be weighed against the greater value of the land or cities that reclamation would endanger.

Differences As to Levees.

While the commission would raise levees an average of 1.7 feet and the army engineers would raise them an average of three feet, the commission plan protects against a smaller flood. If it were adapted to the greatest predicted flood, on the basis of which the Army plan was drawn, it would require higher levees than the Army plan for hundreds of miles. The Army plan generally calls for larger floodways and lower flood levels in the main river.

The Army plan would lower flood levels at Cairo, where levees are declared to have reached their limit, by means of a riverbank floodway on the opposite side of the river. This, however, would raise flood heights to some extent at New Madrid, which is just below the point where the floodway would empty back into the main stream. Gen. Jackson has declared that New Madrid levees could be strengthened to meet the increased strain, but residents of the town have petitioned that it be protected by a cut-off across the neck of the bend on which it is situated. Strickler said that should leave it high and dry, an inland town.

Busy Collecting Data.

Major-General Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers and chairman of the board, and Carleton W. Strickler, chief of the Army Engineers' board, have been studying data in New Orleans and will depart, northbound, on the steamboat Mississippi tomorrow.

Notwithstanding his cautious advance of raising any hope that the board might have its report ready soon, it appeared, on the whole, that the board was on the way to solution of its essential problems.

When he had taken his seat, Parle Cass Riddle of 4205 W. Cote Boulevard avenue was called by the committee to read a long statement made in behalf of the Sumner Teachers' College Patrons' Association and the Citizens' Committee of St. Louis charging Williams chiefly with being autocratic and but of sympathy with his faculty. Thereafter each member of the investigating committee, Dr. L. C. Todd, Mrs. Elias Michael and Arthur A. Blumeyer made statements in which they declared that because Williams appeared to be in command constantly with parents and teachers, his usefulness in his position had ended. Dr. Todd said that of members of the faculty and former members held, 21 had supported Williams, eight had been neutral and 59 had condemned his administration.

Facing something concrete in the way of accusation for the first time, Williams was not permitted to speak in rebuttal. He said that he had known that such a hearing was to be held, he would have raised his friends to present their views. During the evening the board received a petition in Williams' behalf signed by a score of well-known citizens headed by former Mayor Kiel.

John C. Tobin, in voting not to approve the report of the committee, declared that he believed that Williams was entitled to receive charges in writing to have a fair hearing upon those charges. He said he did not believe a fair hearing had been given. Emil Barth and Henry Heier supported that viewpoint and voted against the committee report as did Richard Murphy.

New Schools Approved.

The immediate construction of a new grade school at Vandeventer and Cleveland avenues was ordered by Mrs. Michael. She objected that the site was a lot 100 feet wide and 1000 feet long. The board also approved the contract for construction of the new Kennard school, nine miles from the city, southwest of the present Kennard school, on a lot in Kingshighway hills. Parents of children in the Kennard school have vigorously objected to the new site, declaring it too remote and requiring small children to walk long distances. The school will cost more than $300,000.

The magnitude of the business of education in St. Louis was shown by the report of the secretary-treasurer that the fiscal year's receipts of the board were $12,353,000. They said that sum and $10,000 more, dipping into its surplus which is now $5,531,000.

One of Maddox's appointment victories was that of J. S. Nantz to be director of curriculum, books and supplies, a post paying $5000 a year. For nearly a year Maddox has been trying to fill the post. Until last night, the board had rejected his appointments as regularly as they were made.

Superintendent Maddox and Dr. J. L. Purdon declined to engage in public controversy over differences attributed to them by the Harris Teachers' College investigating committee. Dr. Purdon, who is principal of the college, said mildly that there was "no row" between him and Maddox. The superintendent told the board he would not discuss the matter until he had received a copy of the testimony with the names of the witnesses as required by board rules.

CHILE AND PERU SAID TO BE NEAR RAPPROCHEMENT

Santiago and Lima About to Resume Diplomatic Relations, Severed in Tacna-Arica Dispute.

ACCORD WILL NOT SETTLE THIS ISSUE

But Doubtless Will Lead to Friendly Solution—U. S. Worked to Reconcile the Two Nations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Early restoration of diplomatic relations between Chile and Peru seemed likely today, despite State Department refusal to comment on published reports to that effect. The official silence was construed as indicating that formal communications from the two Latin-American capitals, disclosing the success of negotiations for resumption of friendly relations, severed years ago as a result of the Tacna-Arica dispute, were still awaited.

That Secretary of State Kellogg will find it desirable to express his congratulations when these messages do come to hand, however, is not to be doubted.

The rapprochement negotiations began between Peruvian and Chilean delegates to the Pan-American Conference at Havana. They have been fostered by Kellogg through diplomatic representatives of the two countries here and also through American diplomats at the interested capitals.

Tacna-Arica Issue Still Open.

The project does not include any effort to solve the Tacna-Arica dispute itself as a part of the interchange bringing about restoration of diplomatic relations.

There is reason to suppose that whatever private discussion there may have been among Chilean and Peruvian conferees at any time as to a possible Tacna-Arica agreement formula to end the deadlock over ultimate sovereignty of the territory, no specific proposals in that regard are contemplated in connection with the diplomatic rapprochement, which is understood to be virtually an accomplished fact and awaiting only formal approval by the two foreign offices.

Both Chilean and Peruvian diplomats here and officials of the Washington Government feel, regardless of the necessity for ignoring the Tacna-Arica dispute in attempting to heal the diplomatic breach between Lima and Santiago, that a long stride toward ultimate friendly adjustment of the Tacna-Arica problem will have been taken if ordinary channels of diplomatic intercourse are reopened.

They believe it will not be long, in that event, until a settlement plan satisfactory to the national pride of each party to the territorial dispute will flow out of formal or informal friendly intercourse to which renewed diplomatic relations would open the way.

Would Remove Embarrassment.

Such an eventuality in addition would relieve President Coolidge and the Washington government of embarrassments resulting from the deadlock over the Tacna-Arica question. It is for that reason, in addition to his desire to leave no stone unturned in an effort to clear away one of the most serious sources of international discord in the western hemisphere, that Kellogg has been exerting his influence since the Havana conference to aid nationals of the two countries who initiated the diplomatic rapprochement movement.

MOSLEM WOMEN OF BOSNIA FREED FROM WEARING VEIL

Supreme Synod Decides on Menopausal Plan for Sexes.

SARAJEVO, Bosnia, July 11.—Following Turkey's example, the Supreme Moslem Synod of Bosnia has decided to abolish the feminine veil.

At later sittings, the Synod will consider the movement in favor of monogamy for both sexes in line with the sister Moslem states of Albania and Turkey.

The veil will be replaced by a modified form of the Charsaf, which is an attractive one-piece headscarf, enveloping the head and shoulders but leaving the face uncovered.

Announcement that the prophet Muhammad, ancient ordinance forbidding women to expose their faces had been relegated to history, caused joy among the new generation of Moslem women. Now, however, they are clamoring for the wearing of short skirts, high-heeled shoes and European hats.

5 FILIPINO FANATICS KILLED IN FIGHT WITH CONSTABULARY

Sect Leader Overthrown by Detachment and Slain at Isabella, Negros Province.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, July 11.—Constabulary headquarters here today issued a statement saying that Maru Sedon, leader of the Puljanas, a fanatical religious sect, and four of his followers had been killed in a fight with the constabulary at Isabella, Occidental Negros Province.

The report said a constabulary detachment was pursuing another group of fanatics in that vicinity. Sedon and his followers were overtaken by the officers after they had escaped from an encounter with the constabulary on June 29 and July 1, in which two natives were killed and several wounded.

EX-SECRETARY OF PREMIERS OF BRITAIN IS CORRESPONDENT

Sir Ronald Waterhouse Named in Divorce Action of Sir Max Bonn, Banker.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 11.—The name of Sir Ronald Waterhouse, principal private secretary to British Prime Ministers from 1922 until a few months ago, was introduced into the opening of Sir Max Bonn's counter-divorce suit yesterday. Sir Ronald was named as one of two co-respondents by Sir Max, a banker, formerly of New York.

Most of the day was taken with Bonn's lawyer's opening statement. The lawyer described his client as a hard-working man and his wife as an extravagant, frivolous woman. Nevertheless, he said, their married life was happy until 1927 except for a brief interlude in 1924. This interlude, he explained, came after Lady Bonn spent a holiday on the French coast with a party which included Waterhouse, but not Bonn. On their return, Lady Bonn told Phillips Vow, a friend of Bonn, that she had been infatuated with Waterhouse and he with her.

66 MORE NICARAGUANS SURRENDER TO U. S. MARINES

Insurgents Ask for Amnesty and Safe Conduct to Their Homes.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 11.—Sixty-six more insurgents surrendered to United States Marines yesterday and asked for amnesty and safe conduct to their homes.

Marine headquarters announced that the policy of granting citizenship and protection to those who had been forced into the hills but who desired to labor in peace had been vindicated.

It probably will be continued until the authorities are convinced that the remaining insurgent groups are composed entirely of the criminal type who must be defeated by force of arms.

FRENCH-SPANISH AGREEMENT ON TANGIER'S COMPLETED

Text of Treaty to Be Submitted to Four Governments by End of Week.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 11.—Experts charged with the task of bringing the international status of Tangiers, fixed in 1922, into line with modifications agreed on in the recent Franco-Spanish accord, completed the text at the French Foreign Office last night.

It is expected that the new agreement will be initiated by representatives of France, Great Britain, Spain and Italy before the end of the week.

JAPAN TO WITHDRAW 7000 RESERVISTS FROM SHANTUNG

Cabinet Also Orders Reduction of Forces in Manchuria as Soon as Possible.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 11.—The Japanese Government has decided to withdraw 7000 reservists from Shantung, China, beginning July 20. The cabinet, after instructing the War Minister to arrange for this further reduction of troops sent to Shantung several months ago to protect Japanese, also instructed the Minister to arrange for a reduction in Manchuria as soon as the situation permits.

FLOODS IN SOUTHERN CHILE

Entire Town of Osorno Inundated; Slaughter Heavy.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 11.—Severe floods, resulting from heavy rains, are reported from South Chile. The lower sections of Concepcion were inundated by an overflow of the river Bio-Bio and the houses there the water was three feet deep.

The river Hahue overflowed its banks above Osorno and flooded the entire town. In some of the houses there the water was three feet deep.

Tomb Design Contest Narrows

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Selection of five of the 73 designs submitted for the completion of the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington National Cemetery was announced today by the War Department. The jury of award picked the design submitted by Edwin R. Ripley, Le Bonville, Boston; T. J. Mason Jones, sculptor, and Lorimer Rich, architect, of New York; Harry Sternfeld, architect, Fort Rieboff, associate, and Gaetano Cecere, sculptor, of Philadelphia; James Earl Fraser, sculptor, and Egerton Swartwout, architect, of New York; and Horace W. Peaslee, architect, Carl Moore, sculptor, and Charles Elliot II, landscape architect, of Washington.

GREEK CABINET RELEASES EX-DICTATOR FROM PRISON

Pangalos a Free Man After Being Held for Trial for Treason Since August, 1926.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Greece, July 11.—Gen. Theodoros Pangalos, who was thrown into prison in Aug., 1926, after being ousted as dictator, was a free man today. He had been awaiting trial for treason.

The new cabinet decided that since Pangalos had been ordered imprisoned by a parliamentary commission and since Parliament had been dissolved the commission's existence was ended and Pangalos should be freed.

Theodoros Pangalos seized the power in Greece in 1925 and held it until he inadvertently went to a seaside resort for a holiday in Aug., 1926. Gen. Kondylis took advantage of the absence of Pangalos from the capital to spring a military coup d'etat and the former dictator's holiday wound up in a cell in a Greek fortress.

Gen. Pangalos was held for some time under arrest on the island of Crete. A year after his overthrow a parliamentary committee was designated to inquire into his seizure of power. This committee decided that the general had been guilty of high treason and later a special court composed of 30 members of Parliament was authorized to hold a public trial.

The general petitioned Parliament frequently to have his trial started and at his own request was transferred to the Averoff prison in Athens. There he had a cell which was fitted up with a considerable degree of luxury, but he nevertheless succeeded in getting the trial that he craved.

Various plots for his release have been announced by the Greek administration from time to time, invariably with the notation that they had been frustrated. Eleven army officers were arrested on April 12 in connection with the latest of these.

TALES OF ECONOMIC DISTRESS AMONG FARMERS MINIMIZED

Editor of Agricultural Paper Says Discontent Is Form of Progress at Work.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 11.—Tears of farmers for relief are of the crocodile variety, based more on a desire for added luxuries than for economic necessities, in the opinion of William Johnson, editor of farm life.

Addressing the convention of advertisers here last night, Johnson said real economic distress existed in cities where there is a marked absence of "croaking" for Federal aid.

"Farming may produce no millions," he said, "but it has no breadlines, no flop houses, no pitiable wretches living on charitable nickels and dimes."

"Agriculture has been drearily pictured as a scene of mud and hopelessness. As a matter of fact, the modern farm today would be an agriculture heaven to granddads. Contrast the bare drudgery of 20 years ago with the modern sort, lighted and brightened by power, machinery, radios, automobiles and other things."

"Probably the next generation will be hard up for the price of airplanes."

The discontent of the farmers, Johnson said, is the ferment of progress working in their minds. They want income large enough to pay for the standard of living they have tasted in towns and cities since automobiles and hard roads took them there, he said.

TREATY TO ABOLISH TRADE BARS ADOPTED IN GENEVA

Important Multilateral Commercial Pact Accepted in Presence of American Delegation.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, July 11.—An important multilateral commercial treaty negotiated under the auspices of the League of Nations was concluded yesterday by the adoption, in the presence of the American delegation, of an agreement to abolish trade restrictions.

Prof. Colijn of Holland, president of the conference, said that this constituted a great step toward freedom of trade recommended by the International Economic Conference in 1927, and justified collective negotiations as a cure from economic ills.

The exceptions claimed by the various countries were fewer than expected, as many requests were withdrawn. Of several hundred prohibitions originally asked as exemptions only 18 remain and of these 18 possess only slight importance to world trade. Separate protocols for the abolition of restrictions on commerce in hides, skins and bones also were adopted.

Jilted by Rivera, Takes Up Charity.

MADRID, July 11.—Mercedes Castellanos, whose engagement to Primo de Rivera was broken by the Premier, has taken up charity work. She is devoting part of her fortune and a great deal of her time to the foundation of an asylum and workshops for the poor children of Madrid, but she also is continuing her usual society activities. Her engagement was broken after she had been seen on the Stock Exchange speculating in the company of two men.

MRS. ALVIN T. HERT TO DIRECT G. O. P. WOMEN WORKERS

Kentucky Member of National Committee to Call Meeting of Atlantic States Leaders Soon.

HOOVER SILENT ON ISSUES TILL AUG. 11

Secretary Will Spend Two Days and a Night With President on His Way to California Home.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Republican leaders have assigned a prominent role in the campaign to Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, a vice chairman of the National Committee.

She has been called upon to organize the activities of the women campaign workers, a post which she filled in 1924.

Mrs. Hert intends to call at an early date a meeting of National Committee women from the Atlantic states for the purpose of mapping out a program. She is expected in Washington on July 20.

Mrs. Hert represents Kentucky on the National Committee, in addition to her political work, she maintains an active connection with several large business enterprises with which her husband, who also was prominent politically, was identified. Since 1924 she has been State chairman for Republican women in Kentucky.

Secretary Hoover is busy this week clearing his desk at the Commerce Department and setting his campaign affairs in order for his departure for the West on Saturday night.

Hoover delays announcements. He is making no pronouncements on campaign issues and plans to make none until he delivers his speech accepting the nomination. This policy was revealed when a request for a statement of personal views on the subject of farm relief reached Hoover's headquarters from W. H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation.

In accepting the nomination, however, Hoover intends to speak at length on most of the problems of the campaign.

Hoover will spend two days and a night with President Coolidge at the summer White House in Camp Meade, while enroute to his home at Palo Alto, Cal., where he will be formally notified of his nomination on Aug. 11.

Hoover will arrive at Brule Monday morning and will leave Tuesday night for San Francisco, where he is due at noon on Friday, July 20. He will be formally welcomed home by Gov. Young and Mayor Rolph. Several stops will be made along the route from Superior at places yet to be designated, and it may be that the nominee will make some rear platform appearances.

To Be Guest of Dawes.

Arriving in Chicago at 2 p. m. Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will drive directly to Evanston, Ill., where they will be the guests of the Vice President and Mrs. Dawes. From Chicago the Hoover party will go direct to Superior.

The secretary had a number of callers during the forenoon, including Representatives Bacharach of New Jersey, who predicted that the Hoover ticket would sweep his state with a plurality of not less than 400,000. Other callers included Otis F. Glenn, Republican nominee for the Senate in Illinois; Charles B. Hays of Georgia, president of the Farmers' Union; and Harry Guggenheim, head of the Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aviation.

In his formal statement predicting an overwhelming victory for the Republican ticket in New Jersey, Bacharach said that his state, one of the leading industrial commonwealths of the union, always had believed in and always would believe in the policy of a protective tariff. He said it was against a "tariff for revenue only," which under the Democratic platform of 1924, he added, has been changed to a "tariff for politics only."

"Plenty of work at good wages is the issue in this campaign so far as New Jersey is concerned," Bacharach said, "and that will be the real issue throughout the country."

Preparations for the Eastern campaign are going steadily forward. Representative Tilson of Connecticut, has been named to head an Eastern speakers' bureau. He will make his headquarters in New York and will work in co-operation with the Speakers' Bureau at Chicago.

The meeting of Eastern political way of the Eastern States' New York was postponed yesterday until July 22, with the explanation that a conference on the earlier date seemed unnecessary. It also was announced that Senator Car-

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never favoring any party, always opposing privileged classes and public plunderers, never lacking sympathy with the poor, always remaining devoted to the public welfare, never satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

A City Impotent.

DURING the reconstruction of Olive street and in order to facilitate the work, the Public Service Co. was permitted by the city to skip a number of stops, instead of stopping at each street intersection. Since the work has been completed the city has directed the Public Service Co. to resume the usual stops at each street corner. This the Public Service people have flatly refused to do and it looks as though the city were helpless except by applying to the Missouri Public Service Commission. A vicious statute has taken from the city the practical control of its streets as far as the public utilities corporations are concerned.

This state of affairs should not be lost sight of by the Board of Aldermen in granting rights to the Illinois Traction System. Once those rights are granted the city will be for all practical purposes deprived of all further jurisdiction in the matter and be without control over the traction company.

The traction company needs the franchise at great deal more than the city needs the traction company. It is vital to the future of the traction company to secure the franchise. There is no service that the traction company gives or can give under the new franchise that cannot be afforded by other transportation lines now in operation. In these circumstances the city is now in a position to dictate terms that will preserve its rights and the rights of those living along the proposed route.

It is to be hoped that the city will not lose the advantage of the position it now holds. JOHN FREEMANTLE.

The "Law Enforcement" Planks.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

BOTH platforms on prohibition: "Mother, may I go out to swim? Yes, my darling daughter; Hang your clothes on a hickory limb. But don't go near the water." T. A. L.

For a Sane Fourth.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOW that the Fourth of July, 1928, is behind us, I wonder if it is too early or entirely useless to try to start a campaign for a sane celebration of that important day? Could anyone give me any reason, for instance, for pure noise-makers, such as blank cartridges in pistols or torpedoes on car tracks—things that have neither rhyme nor reason?

Someone said that young people enjoy noise as such—that is a new psychology. My knowledge of children has taught me to protect them from the noise of crowded cities. What is the condition of their nerves after one of our so-called Fourth celebrations when, night and day for at least two days and nights, one cannot read, talk or sleep without constantly being startled?

To use beautiful, colorful fireworks is a fitting and lovely way to celebrate, but the cannon cracker, torpedo and pistol are as senseless as they are a nuisance.

A FOURTH OF JULY SUFFERER.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE seldom seen the Post Dispatch miss out on a chance for an aptly worded and spicily worded editorial.

In your "Letters From the People" of July 8, over the signature of "T. A. L.," it strikes me that you missed such an opportunity. That letter (giving a Southern Protestant Democrat's reasons for supporting Al Smith) should have served as the base of an editorial taking up the whole page, bold-faced type.

I believe that it would extend your best advice to say more or better than did "T. A. L." and I wish to congratulate him for his ability to write such a splendidly logical, scholarly and intelligent expression.

One can perhaps be pardoned, however, for wondering how many such letters could come from a section that produces and supports Hellins of unvarying degree, blue laws and "monkey laws."

Anyhow, that letter is a gem.

L. B. CHIDESTER.

The Fully of Fireworks.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IS there a worthy official of our great city who would plead for a law against the making and sale of fireworks?

It is an outrage to have children injured by fireworks discharged by grown-up people and property endangered.

Of course, it is done accidentally, but children must suffer and perhaps lose their lives. Let the maker of fireworks use his patriotic toys and picnic money well and then a working man's money will be well spent, and we won't have to pay for serum and doctor bills, especially when the injury is caused by unknown persons.

We can show the love of our country in a more humane way.

EVILO.

GOV. SMITH A JUMP AHEAD.

Gov. Smith speaks out again. It is his way of campaigning. When William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Association, wired the Governor asking what was his personal position on the agricultural plank of the Houston platform, and to "state the procedure you will follow if elected President," Gov. Smith answered immediately, giving his position and telling what he would do.

The Governor did not outline a detailed plan, nor was he asked to do so. He replied that he stood squarely on the pledges given by the Democratic party, and added that, if elected, he will immediately call on the leaders to assist him in developing a concrete plan embodying the principles of the Houston platform, for submission to Congress at the first session, accompanied by suggestions for the necessary legislation to make it effective.

The Houston platform pledges the Democratic party to the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill of helping the farmers to protect the prices of farm products in the world market, but not to the bill itself. How to handle the farm surplus so that farmers will be assured a living price is the problem. It is not an easy problem.

The interesting point about Gov. Smith's immediate answer is that he pledges himself, if elected, to begin at once to work out a solution of the farm problem. He pledges himself to take the initiative, and to find the best possible solution of it as soon as he is elected.

A similar telegram to Mr. Hoover received no response. Mr. Hoover was not ready to answer. He is probably mulling the question over and consulting his political advisers as to what he should say.

The contrast between the two men brought out by this incident is rather striking. This instance at least shows frankness and initiative in the one. In the other hesitation and calculation. We would say that Gov. Smith is one jump ahead of Mr. Hoover.

UNION STATION EXPANSION.

The offer of Henry Miller, president of the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association, to open and construct a new Twentieth street west of the property acquired by the association for the expansion of Union Station, south of Market street and in line with the present Twentieth street north of Market, puts a new face on the question of permitting the association to close the present Twentieth street. It is coupled with the offer by the Terminal, announced by City Counselor Muench, to pay $150,000 for the construction of a viaduct extending Clark avenue over the Union Station sheds to Twentieth street, whence it will run west to Grand avenue, connecting with Forest Park boulevard. The payment of this $150,000 was required in the original Union Station ordinance.

The city has not been prepared to build the viaduct, so the Terminal's contribution has been hung up. It is now planned to construct another western thoroughfare in line with Clark avenue through Handlan Park to Grand avenue. The total cost of the viaduct is estimated at $600,000. The Terminal has offered to pay the additional expense of lengthening the viaduct from old Twentieth street to the new Twentieth street.

It is understood that the agreement for these improvements and the issuance of permits by the city for the closing of Twentieth street are being drawn up in the office of the City Counselor. The agreement seems to be a fair bargain, beneficial to both the Terminal Railway Association and the city. The Terminal will be enabled to expand its facilities which expansion is badly needed, at a cost of about $4,000,000, which is good for both the city and the railroads, and the city will get a new Twentieth street, with a substantial contribution to the proposed Clark Avenue viaduct.

Fair agreements of this kind between corporations requiring additional facilities and the city mark municipal progress.

ONE SOLEMN, ABIDING NOTE.

There is surely some rich irony in the project to remove the house in which John D. Rockefeller was born to Coney Island. A kind of shrine to the thrift and austerity of living which has typified the Rockefellers, set down in the midst of America's gaudiest playground.

It must make even John D. himself chuckle. Certainly roller coasters and burly gaudies have no place in the Rockefeller scheme of things. If a recent article in The New Yorker is to be credited, the entire family has always sought to live in the most quiet, reserved, even severe, fashion. Their chief pleasures, for example, have been family hymns after dinner.

We can imagine the Rockefeller house reconstructed somewhere between the Luna Park Steeplechase and the Mirror Maze. Here for a brief moment—and we are certain it will be brief—the passing thousands will pay obeisance to the thrifty, frugal way of life. And pass on, despite the most excellent intentions of Mrs. Sarah S. Deneen, who proposes the memorial, as quickly as possible to the House of Mirth.

DR. WORK AND THE "FAT CATS."

As general manager of Mr. Hoover's campaign, Dr. Hubert Work hastens to deny a report that campaign contributions will be limited in size. In a rather hopeful tone he announces that "anyone can give as much as he chooses." He may reason that if the Republican party could be hurt by slush fund scandals, it is ruined already, and that the sensible thing to do is make the best of the situation. At any rate, he publicly invites the "fat cats" to a skimming.

It is just as well, when we consider how the limiting business has worked out in the past. In 1920 Chairman Will Hays announced that no contribution of more than $1000 would be accepted. When the campaign was over and the country had been happily restored to normalcy by the election of Harding and Coolidge, there remained a deficit which has been estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000. The limited contributions had not kept pace with the unlimited expenditures of the Ohio Gang.

How was the debt paid? Quietly the $1000 limit was taken off, and the pious Hays, armed with his black bag, set out to see the right men. Harry Sinclair came through with $250,000—in Liberty bonds from the legitimate profits of the Continental Trading Co. The late Daniel G. Reid, upstate magnate, was boned for $100,000. The saintly Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, gave $50,000, and a similar amount was obtained from the late John T. Pratt, New York capitalist.

Since the campaign was over, the party officials were not required by law to make these contributions public, although they were given to repay money which had been spent in the campaign. To make silence doubly sure, however, Sinclair's donation was divided into small amounts, and entered on the party books under various names. Mr. Mellon prudently held his tongue. Only through the persistent digging of Senator Walsh did the facts become public—nearly five years later.

Everything considered, then, it seems just as well that no limit should be imposed this time. It doesn't mean anything.

WHY MISLEAD THE ALDERMEN?

Two city officials are playing unworthy roles in the discussions surrounding the proposal to franchise the Illinois Terminal System for 50 years.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service is undertaking to say that the Cass avenue grade crossing can be eliminated, after the railroad's engineers have repeatedly said that separation was impossible, practically.

City Counselor Muench is offering an amendment seeking to bind the railroad to eliminate the crossing if Kinsey can make his plan practical.

Kinsey knows that his plan is impractical and that if the grade crossing is established it never will be eliminated. Why does he bring such a farcical plan to the Board of Aldermen?

Muench knows that his amendment does not increase the power of the city to abolish the grade crossing one whit. He knows that the Missouri Public Service Commission can overthrow his amendment at any time.

Why does he bring such a farcical amendment to the Board of Aldermen? Is the Mayor cracking the whip over his two apoplexies?

If so, why?

JUSTICE FOR THOMAS J. MOONEY.

Thomas J. Mooney has now spent 12 years in prison for a crime which in all probability he did not commit. On July 22, 1916, a bomb was thrown into a preparedness parade at San Francisco, killing 10 persons and wounding 40. Mooney, a labor leader, was arrested and charged with the crime. On Feb. 9, 1917, Mooney was sentenced to hang. Three times the execution was postponed and finally the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Throughout the civilized world the Mooney case is recognized as a cause celebre. President Wilson took the extraordinary course of appointing a Federal commission to look into the Mooney case. The commission recommended that a new trial be granted. Three times President Wilson wrote to Gov. Stephens requesting that Mooney be given another chance to prove his innocence. California, however, was determined to punish the man.

Since the trial of Mooney the case against him has utterly collapsed. Six witnesses who testified against him have admitted they perjured themselves in the interest of a frame-up ring. John McDonald, a thief and a degenerate, confessed his testimony was concocted for him by the police. Estelle Smith, an underworld character with a string of aliases, was the State's star witness. She has confessed that her testimony was false and was given to obtain a share in the $17,000 reward. Melville and Sadie Edeau, who swore they saw Mooney at the scene of the explosion, have repudiated their testimony. Two other witnesses have long police records. Photographs are extant showing that Mooney could not possibly have hurled the bomb.

A new appeal is now being made to get Mooney out of prison. It will be made to Gov. Young, who, in the Charlotte Anita Whitney case, showed himself capable of rising above the psychoses which now and again seem to seize California. In connection with this direct appeal, labor organizations throughout the world will hold mass meetings to indicate their faith in Mooney's innocence. We trust the effort will be successful. We trust that justice, belated though it be, will be done to a man who was railroaded to prison without a new trial over the protests of a President of the United States.

We could imagine worse fates just now than skimming over the cool Atlantic in a sailboat bound for Spain.

A NEW EPOCH FOR ST. LOUIS.

Olive street, from Twelfth to Channing, has been transformed from a narrow street choked with traffic into a broad and sleek thoroughfare. Work was begun in the latter part of March and the street has been opened in a little more than three months. The city and the Public Service Co. are to be congratulated for the speed in which they have worked. We believe the citizens of St. Louis are well pleased with the widening of Olive, and that it will bring rich returns, both in the redemption of a potentially great business section and in the creation of a new outlet for westbound traffic from the downtown district.

Olive street widening is one of the fruits of the $37,000,000 bond issue voted by St. Louis in 1923. As of last March, only $31,000,000 of the money had been spent, but already many of the benefits that will be derived have become apparent. The destruction of old buildings on Twelfth street to make room for the new Courthouse, now well on its way to completion, is a harbinger of the spaciousness and beauty of the new Plaza. Drawings of the Plaza as it will look when it is finished have been published, and they have aroused eager expectation. It will be St. Louis' Place de la Concorde. The new electric light standards, replacing the gas lights, were badly needed and add much to the sightliness and safety of our streets, though more money will be needed to complete this project.

The River des Peres sewer, having of Delmar over the new Washburn viaduct, the widening of Twelfth and of Market streets, and many other needed improvements are in the process of being made under the bond issue. In 1923 St. Louis had come to the fork of the roads. It faced the question of spending a great deal of money to modernize the city, or to let it slump into decay. If took the former path and the results of that decision are everywhere apparent, not only in the tangible values of the bond issue projects, but in the very spirit of the city. It will be some time before the 1923 bond issue money is spent, yet discussion of further investment in city improvements is ripe.

Immediately before us is the proposal to authorize a $2,000,000 bond issue for a municipal airport, to be voted on in the August election. We believe the result of the voting on that issue will bear out the Post-Dispatch's conviction that St. Louis has entered upon a new epoch of progressiveness.

AL SMITH AND FREE SPEECH.

From the Arkansas Democrat.

THOUGH the lack of moral courage prevents millions of Americans from using it, there is no right which they consider more sacred and dear the loudest for than the right of free speech. They preach it almost fanatically, yet practice it sparingly. It is given them in their Bill of Rights—now sadly battered but still aloft—and they dream of it in their cars, about as they march up and down the millions of corn and cotton rows of the land. There is one occasion, however, when they rarely fail to practice that privilege and that is when they are called upon to pass judgment upon the religious faith of their fellow-citizens, forgetting that within that same Bill of Rights there is another provision which says men may worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience.

In the darkest hours when the nation's life is threatened, we draw no fine theological distinctions. Men are needed to carry guns and it matters not whether they are Protestant, Catholic or Jew. We forget that there exist such things as religious beliefs.

But safe at home in the midst of peace men return to their tribal instincts and look with suspicion upon the stranger, whether he be an "alien" in religion, in politics or even in social customs. His word means nothing unless he "conforms." He is denied the right of free speech even before he is denied the right to worship as he wishes.

What does Gov. Al Smith think of free speech? During 1925 when the Department of Justice was running amuck and yelling "Red" at every man who held political opinions of his own, the New York Legislature was swept off its feet by the hysteria of the times. It expelled its Senate members and passed bills which made freedom of speech a ridiculous mockery.

When those bills were presented to Gov. Smith he very promptly vetoed them. He refused to approve laws that not only would have denied men the right of freedom of political thought and speech, but would have created an immense espionage system.

Although Gov. Smith vetoed these bills they became laws under his successor. In the campaign of 1922 he made them an issue and secured their repeal at the first session of the Legislature in 1923.

That is the Al Smith whom Tom Heflin would have us believe is an actor in a great plot to deny us the right not only of freedom of religious belief but of freedom of speech.

LET'S WAIT FOR MR. HOOVER'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

From the New York Evening Post.

WE would gently suggest to National Chairman Work that the Republican nominee for the Presidency is the present Secretary of Commerce, not the former Secretary of the Interior.

Dr. Work is issuing almost daily bulletins as to the issues of the campaign. One day we are told that the tariff is to be the issue. The next we learn that the "matters of personal liberty" (he later explains that this means prohibition) are not proper subjects for political debate. We don't see why and we don't care overmuch what Dr. Work thinks about it.

On the other hand, we care very much about what Mr. Hoover thinks on the campaign issues. Why can't Dr. Work devote himself for a while to fixing up Mr. Good, Senator Moses and the rest of his organization and let the candidate attend to the candidate's job? After all, in a very few days Mr. Hoover's formal speech of acceptance will give us at first hand what we are now getting at second. We thought the "official spokesman" had been abolished.

THE AMERICAN WOMAN IN POLITICS.

From the Columbus, Ga., Enquirer-Sun.

IT IS obvious to all who have followed the news accounts of the recent Republican and Democratic conventions, that women have played a conspicuous part thus far in the presidential contest. It is likely that they will continue in considerable numbers to be interested and to vote politically until the November elections. It should be obvious, also, to those who have kept up with the ideals and objectives of the state and national Leagues of Women Voters as revealed from time to time in the press or given regularly in their official organs, that the women who come to the fore in politics in the United States are trying to give themselves to vote intelligently and patriotically. It will have been noticed that the representatives of the state and national Leagues at Houston made a special effort to demand planks in the national platform guaranteeing certain social legislation which is assumed to benefit women and children.

It is obvious, on the other hand, that thousands of women voters have no interest in the coming election outside the question of prohibition. Thousands, also, will vote for any candidate rather than for a Catholic. The status of women and children in industry, maternity protection, child health, educational measures, freedom of speech, and state rights—all these vital questions are of secondary importance in their eyes to the question of the candidate's religious convictions or his attitude toward the liquor question. Fanaticism will prevent the play of the rationalizing process upon the issue and emotionalism will vent itself uncontrolled.

So it would be foolishly idealistic to imagine that the vote of those women who are studying political issues or government in general through their Leagues or clubs will have any special effect in the coming elections. Nevertheless it is encouraging to observe that the number of influential women all over the country who take their vote seriously seem to be slowly increasing.

It is true that fewer women register and vote than was expected when they gained the suffrage, but there is little doubt that women voters who are members of the Leagues are studying vital issues and trying to vote from logical conviction rather than because of fanatical obsession.

We have never expected and do not now expect any great change in politics because of women's vote, for women are, after all, human beings before they are females. They are just as subject to dishonesty, to the sway of passions and to mere ignorance as men. But even should their entrance into politics fail to alter trends in that field, it will broaden the feminine horizon.

FABLE.

Now about this time, the King of the Land That Never Was, according to the persistent demands of his subjects, ordered an investigation of the what-not industry.

On the other hand, we care very much about what Mr. Hoover thinks on the campaign issues. Why can't Dr. Work devote himself for a while to fixing up Mr. Good, Senator Moses and the rest of his organization and let the candidate attend to the candidate's job? After all, in a very few days Mr. Hoover's formal speech of acceptance will give us at first hand what we are now getting at second. We thought the "official spokesman" had been abolished.

Tense Situations

FLAMES AND OTHER PLAYS
By Arlio Flamma (The Stage
Co., N. Y.)

THE five one-act plays here translated from the Italian are notable for striking situations, passionate intensity and vivid realism. The character. What they lack is either a solution to the dramatic problem, created in each instance with extraordinary skill, or at least some convincing resolution of the evoked passion by the realization or suggestion of some result. Here Arlio Flamma seems to exert all his power in producing dramatic potentialities, and having done so, he drops the curtain. However, taking into consideration the fashion among contemporary writers, who seldom get beyond a fragmentary conception of any artistic problem and do not seem to understand the significance of the word organic, this characteristic lack of Flamma's little plays is hardly remarkable. It may be that in his longer dramas he does manage to arrive somewhere, and if it be should ever succeed in focusing all his unquestionable power upon a single point, held in mind from the beginning, the impact would be one to remember.

The title play sets forth a situation in which the sister of a radical agitator is found to be in love with her brother's unjust employer. The conflict between the girl's two passionate loyalties surely has in it a great deal of dramatic dynamite, but it doesn't go off.

"Quits" presents another tense situation without results. A broken-down lady of very easy virtue turns a drink of absinthe from a former husband whom she had betrayed. It's a ghastly picture, and that is all.

"Don Luca Sperante" is concerned with a death-bed scene in which divers greedy relatives display a consuming affection for the departed until his disappointing will is read. The piece is related rather to painting than to literature.

Perhaps the most effective piece in the collection is "Sister Magdalena." It is concerned with a struggle between the passionate maternal instinct of a nun and the fanaticism of a blind old abbess. Had this tremendous situation been worked out to some sort of conclusion, the play could have been a marvelous form. "Sister Magdalena" is hard to forget.

EPISCOPAL HONOR CROSS TO 10

Two Women and Eight Men Get Award for Service to Church.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Two women and eight men have been voted the cross of honor of the order of the Sangreal for "distinguished service to the Episcopal Church and humanity," the Rev. Irwin T. St. John Tucker, master of the order, announced today.

Among the list of those cited is the Rt. Rev. John Gardner Murray, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America. The award was made "because under great pain and hardship he has offered his life freely in the fulfillment of the heavy burden of his office." Augusta Martin, founder of the House of Hospitality, Scotland, Ala., and Mrs. Edna Bunker, wife of the late Bishop Miller and head of the National Center for Devotion and Conference, Racine, Wis., were the two women cited. Ralph Adams Cross, Boston architect, was voted the award because "he has interpreted the spirit of Christ to the world in terms of architecture." Others awarded the cross were: Bishop Peter Trimble Rowe, who has been bishop of Alaska for 22 years; Bishop Charles Henry Brent of Buffalo, N. Y.; the Rev. David E. Gibson, pastor of the Cathedral Shelter, Chicago; George Pysan, Chicago; the Rev. James S. Huntington, founder of the Holy Cross; and the Rev. Dr. Francis J. Hall.

FARMINGTON LIGHT RATE CUT

FARMINGTON, Mo., July 11.—The City Council has reduced light and power rates, the change becoming effective immediately. The new rate will be 11 cents per kilowatt against 13 cents on the old rate for the first 25 kilowatts. The same rate will be charged for the next 25 and kilowatts in excess of that number will be 8 cents. The new power rate will be 5 cents for the first 1000 kilowatts used, against the old 6-cent rate; 4 cents for the second kilowatt and 3 1/2 cents for all over 2000 kilowatts used. There is a heating rate of 4 cents per kilowatt regardless of the amount used.

A new contract made with the Union Electric Co. provides for a small reduction in the cost of current. It is believed the reduction will save approximately $400 to customers.

Held for Selling German Secrets.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, July 11.—Government Construction Engineer Ludwig was under arrest today charged with selling secrets of German air construction to soviet Russia. He was employed at the important experimental station of the Transportation Ministry at Adlershof, near Berlin.

Ludwig also is under suspicion of having acted similarly when employed previously by two airplane manufacturers. These are understood to be the Junkers company and the Dornier company. All the new types of construction and invention are tried out at Adlershof. But since Ludwig "is a subordinate position the Government does not think he was able to divulge important information."

1353 CITIZEN-SOLDIERS
GET FIRST DAY OF DRILL

After Work All Morning. Varied Athletics Comprise Afternoon Program.

First call, sounding at 5:45 o'clock at Jefferson Barracks this morning, turned 1353 men out of 1353 army coats for their first day of real drill in the Citizens' Military Training Camp. Fifteen minutes later 1353 pairs of boots clicked into line for assembly. Khaki-clad figures filed into the mess hall and 1353 breakfasts of peaches, corn flakes, sausages, potatoes, coffee cake and milk vanished as by magic.

After guard mount, squad by squad, the citizen-soldiers were initiated into the mysteries of the position of a soldier, hand salutes, march and squares right. These maneuvers were familiar to more than half the students, who are veterans of former camps.

This afternoon was devoted to athletics by the entire encampment. Each man indulged in the sport of his choice, whether it be baseball, running, swimming or mass calisthenics. Taps will sound at 10:45 o'clock tonight.

Men Take Oath to U. S.
Yesterday afternoon 1353 voices rolled across a drill field as the men, with bare heads and raised right hands, repeated phrase by phrase the oath of allegiance to the United States which will bind them for a month.

"You're in the army now," said the recruit from Illinois to the recruit from Arkansas.

"Pipe down, we're supposed to be at attention," said the recruit from Missouri.

For the most part these are earnest young men. They made a surprisingly smart outfit as their veteran-filled ranks executed a "right by squads" back to company streets.

The recruit from Arkansas polished his rifle and read an Infantry Drill Regulations. The "Soldier's Bible." The recruit from Missouri stood before a bulletin board and murmured over and over, "My post extends along Officers' Road. . . . To prevent unaccompanied persons from entering camp. . . . To be watchful for fires and immediately report same."

"I guess this means you, rookie," said the recruit from Illinois. "It says here, 'Ladies visitors entering company streets are embarrassing to students and will be discouraged.'"

Sets Age and Sticks to It.
Most of these soldiers are between 17 and 24 years old, at least theoretically. The boyish appearance of one applicant caused the medical examiner to ask his age rather sharply.

"Eighteen years and three months," answered the youth, who measured just four feet two inches in height and weighed just 90 pounds.

"How old?"
"Eighteen years, three months," he repeated glibly.

"When were you born?" The question was shot at him.

"Well—uh—I'm 18 years and three months, sir, you'll have to figure it back yourself."

Edward Park of Mounds, Ill., who besides being 18 years and three months old is the smallest man in camp, already is known as "Big Boy" to the rest of Company K.

Carl Graddy, who hails from Morgan, Ark., where "they grow them big," is six feet five inches tall. Finding a uniform to fit him proved a problem.

A healthier group of men could hardly be found anywhere. Of the entire encampment only one applicant was rejected because of physical defects. About 60 more students can be cared for, according to the camp officials.

Here are cities alive with romance, grotesque, rich-colored mountain scenery unlike any other—swift, clear trout streams—virgin forests of fragrant pine and spruce—wild life in abundance—truly a charming remnant of the real West. All easily accessible by fast, convenient C. & N. W. train and in the Black Hills, delightful tours over smooth, paved highways in comfortable new motor buses.

The low cost will surprise you. Let us send illustrated folders and complete information.

A close-up photograph of a document page. On the left side, there is a vertical strip of text, likely a page number or a small table of contents, which is partially obscured by a dark, irregular stain or smudge. The stain is dark and has a rough, textured appearance, extending vertically across the page. The background of the page is light-colored and appears to be a standard document paper.

The market opened firm at a gain of 11 to 16 points in response to the relatively firm tone of Liverpool and the prospect of heavy rains in the eastern and central belts.

October contracts sold up to 22.07½ in this initial demand, but met considerable resistance and were then sold off to 22.04½, mainly on trading. Liverpool was a buyer here on the decline, which was seemed to bring in some further covering and a recovery to 22.07½.

The market was quiet and steady at 22.07½ level for October at the end of the early trade.

It was reported that one of the traders

Cushion Collars on Advance Fall Coats

CUSHION collars appear on many of the advance fall coats. They are necessary of flat fur, Beaver and mink are the first choice. Lelong is the principal advocate of this type of collar.

When the fox head is silky and well formed it is kept on the collar on the left shoulder. The skin is prolonged well down on the right side. A collar of gray fox on the coat of an almond green ensemble has two heads at the center back of the collar. When a double fur is worn, both heads are used, crossing at the back.

An English woman has patented a burglar alarm that causes a phonograph to play a record imitating a pack of barking dogs.

MORE HOLIDAYS

THE solution of our unemployment problem is to have more holidays. Then horny-handed guys out of work won't have so many days to loaf. For a nation as big and strong as we are, we have too few alarm-clockless days.

A list of proposed legal holidays is appended. If our legislative rookies won't make them legal, maybe the organized minority of people with jobs can slip them across.

These are the days we should celebrate:

- Jan. 1—In memory of the night before.
- Jan. 9—Birth of Azel Winch, inventor of the letter slot.
- Jan. 16—Eighteenth amendment day.
- Jan. 17—Anniversary of birth of the bootlegging.
- Jan. 18—The Battle of Wood alcohol.
- Jan. 20—Celebration of death of the inventor of the telephone booth.
- Feb. 4—Free verse day. (Local holiday, celebrated in Mattawan.)
- Feb. 6—Opening of "Buy a Set of Earlaps" Week.

Feb. 11—Wedding anniversary of De Wolf Hopper.

Feb. 12—Lincoln's birthday.

Feb. 13—Anniversary of first auction sale of jewelry. Auction still going on.

Feb. 14—St. Valentine's day.

Feb. 15—Anniversary of sinking of the Maine.

Feb. 16—Anniversary of launching of oil investigation.

Feb. 22—Washington's birthday.

Feb. 23—(Every four years)—Leap year day.

March 4—(Every four years)—Leap year day for outgoing administration.

March 9—Another wedding anniversary of De Wolf Hopper.

March 16—Battle of the Times Square Subway.

March 17—St. Patrick's day. (Celebrated everywhere except in the Invisible Empire.)

March 29—Anniversary of Nolle Swift, first housemaid who didn't want Thursdays and Sundays off.

April 1—All Fools' day. (Celebrated in Wall street, Texas oil regions and Florida real estate sectors.)

April 6—Another wedding anniversary of De Wolf Hopper.

April 12—Battle of Lexington and Concord. The shot that was heard around the world.

April 20—Invention of the Bronx cocktail. Another shot that was heard around the world.

May 14—Anniversary of signing of the first installment lease for furniture.

May 20—Memorial day.

June 1—Wedding day. (Still celebrated in some places.)

June 12—Another wedding anniversary of De Wolf Hopper.

June 17—Battle of Bunker Hill. (Not a golf holiday.)

July 4—Fourth of July. (Also known as Independence day outside the twelve-mile limit.)

July 5—Visitors' day in accident wards.

Aug. 3—Get-a-Haircut day. (Not celebrated in parts of West Virginia, Kentucky and Arkansas.)

Sept. 1—Price-of-coal-goes-up day. (Wildly celebrated in Pennsylvania.)

First Monday of September—Labor day.

Oct. 1—Moving day. (Observed but not celebrated.)

Nov. 11—Armistice day. (Celebrated everywhere, but not as much as you'd think in Milwaukee.)

Last Thursday in November—Thanksgiving day.

Dec. 25—Christmas day. (Celebrated everywhere except by postmen.)

Dec. 26—Bargain day. (Do your Christmas exchanging early.)

Dec. 31—Bring-Your-Own day. And Night.

Picnic Boxes.

The paper carton in which the quart of ice cream arrives, when washed out with hot water and dried quickly, will prove just the thing for packing picnic sandwiches. They can be saved and individual lunches packed in each. It is time to at a premium and lunch must be eaten while traveling. It would save a great deal of distributing and passing of food.

Stuffed Veal Cutlet.

Spread out cutlet and pound lightly with a dish, sprinkling with salt and pepper. Prepare a savory bread poultry dressing and spread over the cutlet. Roll like a jelly roll and tie into shape. Roast in a hot oven until well browned. Then cook slowly for an hour, basting frequently with hot water and melted butter. An economical company roast and one they will enjoy.

Raspberry Cream.

Dissolve 1½ tablespoons granulated gelatin in ½ cupful cold water and then over hot water. Stir into two cupfuls raspberry juice and let stand until it cools and begins to set. Then add two cupfuls whipped cream, sweetened with ¼ cupful confectioner's sugar. Beat together until well mixed. Pour into individual molds and chill. A delightfully delicate spring dessert.

The Hat Is Now an Essential Part of the Ensemble

A soft flexible hat of gray batik felt with the brim wider on the left side and slashed amusingly in front to tuck under the narrow ribbon band. Worn by Mrs. Dudley Coats.

Below—A fine white Oriental straw rolled up in front. The brown ribbon band finishes in a bow on the edge of the folded brim. Worn by Miss Sanford.

Another race or garden party hat of crin with a lace weave in which the brim takes on something of a bonnet line. In ecru color this model is trimmed with a band and a bow of velvet. Worn by Mrs. Hagemeyer Jr.

It Must Not Attract Attention to Itself But Harmonize With the Dress and Be Suited to the Wearer.

By MARIE CHRISTIANE
(Marquise de San Carlos and Mrs. Julia Thompson.)

A dress evolves, becomes more youthful and supple, it is evident that hat fashions must change, too, to keep in line. Women from all over the world dream of one day possessing a Paris hat. Some of them, on their first visit, rush to buy a Paris hat before they do anything else.

Nowadays, however, so much is talked, thought and written about dress that it has become a positive science. We are told to study line, character, individuality, color and shade and one other detail: that by obedience to this rule and that rule we shall be well dressed and thus only.

It is quite true that the woman who has found a style among the many that are permissible today becomes smarter and smarter as she studies and develops that style. But, whether she goes in for being ultra-Parisian "sportive" or merely extremely feminine, she must find not only the hat that suits her type of dress, but the hat that is becoming to her.

Of course, all modistes will tell you that the hat makes or mars an ensemble. But is this not true? Nowhere more than in Paris is such care taken to fit the model to the head, twist and turn the brim to suit the face, in short, mold it to the head as if it were of clay instead of felt or straw. That is why a Paris hat is something to treasure when you are away, for it gives the hallmark of Paris to your whole appearance.

THERE are some hats that are like modest art or impressionistic literature. They are so clever that you have to be educated up to them. The Parisienne wears this type of hat delightfully, because, with her, chic is an instinct—an inborn quality.

On the whole, however, such hats are not the most becoming to Anglo-Saxon faces. The smart American or Englishwoman wants a hat that is made on her head. She wants beauty of line and the right proportions. She requires hats with brims that curve to the nape of her neck to wear with the voluminous fur collars we still so often require in the summer. But, above all things, she wants a hat that is becoming to her face and in which she looks her best when she puts it on at home without the guiding hand of a fitter or vendor.

So often the fitter starts out to make one type of hat, and, as she looks into the mirror and studies the face of the woman destined to wear the hat, she turns it into something quite different.

SUMMER is the time when most of us travel, so, except for a few special hats for the races during the Grand Prix week in Paris and for Ascot and Goodwood in England, everybody wants hats that are smart for all the pleasant country places around Paris, where one drives out on sunny days for luncheon or dinner in the open air; hats for Deauville, Biarritz and Le Touquet, and Americans want hats for every place under the sun. Therefore, although the Marie Christiane line on the whole favors a brim that shades the eyes we are making very flexible hats of felt or very soft straw that are extremely easy to pack.

So, driven out on sunny days for luncheon or dinner in the open air, we are wearing collared coats, dresses with little scarfs, in fact, summer fashions. The time has come for a new line. While each of the seven hats devastating this article is of a different type, you will notice that six have one characteristic in common—a brim that is asymmetrical. The model in lace crinoline is the exception because, this being fanciful hat, material does not need any originality of shape to give it distinction.

THE wide-brimmed hat of which two views are shown, has a deep curve down on the side where it has a fold. This is to harmonize with the flowing lines of the chiffon and printed crepe de chine frocks that will be worn at garden parties and at the races in Paris. But, however, original the line of the hat, remark that the trimming is always simple. This hat is black, with an inlet band of natural colored straw just under the crown to match the lining of the brim. It is trimmed with a simple band of black ribbon over a straw-colored one, the plain ends forming its only decoration.

Fanciful trimming is absolutely out of keeping with the modern hat. He may bend the brim and twist it in any direction you choose, but no flowers or other decoration must break the natural line of the head.

The nearest approach to what is conventionally understood by trimming, is when we put a narrow ribbon of two or even three colors on to a hat. Then one will match the color of the hat itself and the other two will match colors that are reproduced in the dress if it happens to be a printed one, or in a scarf that is worn with it if it is a plain color to match the hat.

Trimming died when hats ceased to possess a separate entity. At one time women used to wear a particular hat just because they fancied it was becoming to them, or because they felt like it. Now the hat has become part of the ensemble. It must not attract attention to itself, but form an essential part of one harmonious whole.

IN Paris we study this question of making hats "go" with individual dresses or wraps to such a degree that in most cases the color of the hat is specially dyed in order exactly to reproduce the color of the gown or coat.

When a hat has an important bow, such as one of those illustrated, this bow must exactly match the color of the hat. In this way the emphasis on the asymmetrical line caused by the size of the velvet bow is minimized by the fact that the whole color note is monotone.

In millinery, elimination is the safest card to play. A felt hat often trims itself if the brim is cut in such a manner as to lend itself to some form of drapery or twist. The beginning and the end of chic in the matter of hats is line. It is line, too, that makes a hat becoming.

Each of the hats illustrated on this page makes a becoming frame to the face. Such shapes are easy to wear, and once the hat has been successfully built on the head, any woman can put it on in such a way that she looks her most attractive without being afraid that next time she calls on her modiste, her venduse will say: "Oh, madam! It is not so that you must wear that hat, but so," giving it the deft professional twist.

The aim is to make hats that you can take away to any country and feel you can put them on and always look your best.

CORRECTING CLUMSY HANDS.

BETTER a moist, too-soft hand any day than a hard, dry, stiff hand, fresh from too long contact with the garden hose. But best of all, magnetic handshaking and so forth, is a silky for purposes of warmth and in place of flabbiness, elasticity.

Speaking of magnetism in connection with hands, have you ever noticed the "spell" some people are able to cast with a handclasp? It is often more potent than the aging effects of household chores, but not where the hands are wont to perspire freely. Canvas or cotton gloves are much to be preferred in this case.

Cologne water 8 ounces

This lotion has a particularly desirable effect, if used directly after washing the hands. The mixture should be rubbed into the skin thoroughly. The final dusting with talcum is not necessary when the lotion is used, but rather pleasant all the same—and a great help in the way of keeping the inside of one's kid gloves clean.

Just a gentle reminder, though, regarding this lotion and prying infant fingers. Belladonna is a deadly poison, so keep this particular toilet preparation on the topmost shelf in the house!

And just one little "don't" before we bid the present topic good-by—ordinarily rubber gloves offer the best possible protection against the aging effects of household chores, but not where the hands are wont to perspire freely. Canvas or cotton gloves are much to be preferred in this case.

LATE BRYANT

Stuffed Eggs.

Boil 6 eggs for 20 minutes. Peel the tiny rounded ends of the whites off the egg so it will stand upright. Now cut in half and remove yolks. Mash yolks fine with melted butter, anchovy paste, salt and pepper. Return to whites and arrange on end in a buttered baking dish. Stand in oven until hot, then pour a piping hot white sauce over them and serve.

Cute in a Baby—Awful at Three—and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen!

The habit may cause an ill-formed jaw, a protruding upper lip, and it always interferes with digestion. Finishing the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the fingers, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first a little Fletcher's Castoria will regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 20 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

Kitchen Kinks

Grated carrots are pretty and good to eat in the vegetable salad.

Baked potatoes are more digestible than any other method of serving this vegetable.

Boiled onions are good covered with a white sauce, buttered crumbs and then baked.

A few sour pickles chopped and added to sardine paste for sandwiches make a delightful filling.

Griddle cakes can be served as a dessert by spreading with jelly or preserves and then rolling like a jelly roll.

Use as little water as possible when making pie crust if you wish it to be flaky.

When closing the house for vacation, even for a few weeks, it is advisable to take preventive measures if you want to find the home and contents in good condition upon your return.

Dampness must be guarded against. Your home may not be damp while it is occupied and a circulation of air passing through continually, but with all dogs and windows closed it becomes a different story. The dampness from outside will penetrate the walls and play havoc. A chimney, especially, will collect dampness, so if you have a bookcase standing against the chimney move it out a few inches away from the wall to protect the books against mustiness, discoloration and bookworms, and the case itself against warping. For this same reason any piece of furniture standing against the chimney should be moved out from contact with the wall. If the piano stands against an outer wall, move it away.

Having a free circulation of air throughout the house will help, and this precaution will also reduce the collection of dust to a minimum. Of course, you do not want to have an outside window open, but there will be quite a free circulation if you leave all the inside doors ajar, including closet and cupboard doors. Disconnecting the furnace flue from the chimney is another circulation safeguard, and, if possible, a good circulation could be secured by getting some ventilation for the cellar to the outside air.

Old-Fashioned Slaw.

Shave cabbage fine and boil rapidly for 20 minutes. Drain and add one-half cup of cream and two well-beaten eggs. Return to fire and when this begins to boil add one-half cup vinegar, salt, pepper to taste and serve very hot.

Chicken and Bacon.

One fry boned chicken, 6 slices of crisp bacon, thin slices of bread, watercress. Mince chicken, chop bacon finely, shred watercress and mix all with mayonnaise. Spread on thin slices of buttered bread and cut into fancy shapes.

A Shock Absorber.

A heavy Turkish towel placed in the bottom of the dishpan before washing the valuable china and cut glass will protect the things from getting chipped or broken.

THREE GENERATIONS

WARWICK DEEPING

AUTHOR OF
"SORRELL AND SON"

SYNOPSIS.

Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winchester, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven when his son Conrad sees him there. He has been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Probyn, that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance Pybus, had believed his grandfather dead, but he looks him up at the Saracen's Head without telling his parents of the meeting. When Lance finishes at Cambridge he takes a room in London and after gaining his father's reluctant consent and a small allowance he devotes himself to writing. In London Lance meets and is attracted to Olive Gadsden, a mannish.

Mary Merris, a friend of Old Pybus, takes care of a blind brother.

INSTALLMENT XL
MARY'S CULT.

MARY MERRIS INSISTED her deprecate to seater into the broad passage leading from the Saracen yard to the Venerable's cottage. She brought her brother with her. He remained in the car while she disposed of her produce and did her shopping. Wearing no hat, and dressed in an old black and gold blazer, a boating sweater and gray flannel trousers, he sat there with a peculiar rigidity of head and shoulders.

"On that first occasion the Venerable was conscious of feeling the distinct shock of Gilbert Merris' strangeness. The closed eyelids were the eyelids of a man asleep, and yet the face had a peculiar and attentive wakefulness. It was a handsome head and a weak head, the upper lip and chin covered with a dark dapple of soft hair like the virgin hair on the face of a Greek youth in marble. The closed eyelids produced an effect that was curious and slightly sinister. Sometimes a supercilious smirk seemed to hover over the still face. It had both a placidity and a mobile peevishness.

When Old Pybus spoke to him the change was instant and vivid. The head turned with a little jerk, and the white eyelids confronted the voice and its owner.

"O, you're the porter here. Quite a bookish person—I hear."

His voice was soft and his animation strangely lacking the light of his eyes. He gave the Venerable the impression of being shaken by his own breathing.

Mr. Pybus rested his arms on the side of the car.

"Not quite a bookish person."

His voice was gentle, for he was conscious of pity, but also he was conscious of a slight feeling of repulsion. He tried to get the impression of what that face would be like with the eyes alive in it. He thought the sensuous mouth above the little dark Assyrian beard too much like a soft fruit.

The Saracen yard was full of cars and chauffeurs, and of people who were packing luggage away, and the Venerable—beside Mary Merris' car.

There were white pigeons on the roof above, and Old Pybus gave a characteristic whistle and the birds—poised on white wings—came floating down.

"Can you hear them?"

"Wings—I can feel the wind of them."

The Venerable had a bird perched on either wrist.

"If you are gentle, sir—they'll let you stroke them."

But when Merris put out a hand the birds flew away, leaving behind them on his blind face a look of vacancy and of annoyance. His fingers came into contact with the Venerable's right arm.

"Gone?"

"You put out your hand too quickly."

"Just like humans. They run away from you—if you are deaf or blind."

"Are you coming with me, dear?"

when a voice hailed him in passing.

Well, Pybus, plucking the pigeons."

The Venerable followed him with his eyes. Much raw spirit may come from Glasgow, and also a raw sense of humor that is essentially Scotch, a kind of dry and blurring rudeness that resembles the gruffness of a little terrier, but Hargreaves was not Scotch. The brown bligness of him held on towards the Merris car.

"Hello—my lady."

"That you—old chap?"

"Come in and have a drink."

Merris fumbled his way out of the car with a smile on his blind face and Hargreaves, taking him by the arm, piloted him across the yard and in by the Saracen's side door, that surreptitious door that was used by the gay fellows of the town.

Old Pybus followed them in, and watched them into the lounge. He stood by his brass gown, able to see and to hear.

Couple of double whiskies, George."

"Right, sir. Very hot today, sir."

Ten minutes later the Venerable was listening to the brother's facile and foolish laughter, while he waited for his sister. Now, just how would she appear? He had his own picture of her coming in that side door and up the rather dark passage, inwardly flinching, but refusing to let herself flinch. And it happened as he had foreseen. She came in with a kind of swiftness, her face asking to be left unlooked at. She passed the door of the private bar and the office window.

"Mr. Pybus?"

"If you are gentle, sir—they'll let you stroke them."

But when Merris put out a hand the birds flew away, leaving behind them on his blind face a look of vacancy and of annoyance. His fingers came into contact with the Venerable's right arm.

"Gone?"

"You put out your hand too quickly."

"Just like humans. They run away from you—if you are deaf or blind."

The tragedy of his blindness was also the tragedy of his self-pity. Theoretically his mind about him had sufficed him, filling his dark world with luminous sound, but he was not sufficiently the impersonal artist to lose himself in the rendering and the giving. He was older than his sister, yet when they were together she was the mother and he the child. Coming down through the crowded yard she would look anxiously at his somnolent face. Even her smiling glance at old Mr. Pybus was an appeal to one who understood.

"Have I been a long time, Gil?"

"I'm used to sitting."

He inclined his head slightly in the direction of the lounge. She passed on. He saw her go straight towards the two men in the far corner. She looked at her brother; never once did she look at Hargreaves.

"Gil—I'm ready."

Hargreaves stood up. He stared at her. There was a kind of brutal playfulness in his full eyes. Merris remained in his chair.

"I'm coming back with Bob."

She stood a moment, looking down at her brother.

"Are you coming with me, dear?"

"No," he said. "I'm not," and his defiance ended in a kind of foolish giggle.

She turned and walked straight out of the lounge. She was very white. She paused for a moment by old Pybus.

"I'm leaving him. You will be here?"

"I shall," said he.

At "Mirabeau's," on idle occasions, Olive Gadsden and the other young women dealt with life as though they were disposing of French pastry in a tea-shop.

"O, my dear, he's a nice kid, quite a nice kid, but a bit difficult."

In the affair between Lance Pybus and Olive Gadsden there were no suppositions and no arrogations. Youth is very wise these days, yet however modern you may be there is always the danger of your reverting to the archaic outlook of your parents. But Olive had put on and off a series of these affairs as she put on and took off the frocks at Chalfont street.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given. Letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

MRS. L. E. C.—If the soldier was General in the war between States it should be an easy matter to get his record by writing the War Department, Washington, D. C. However, give the person's rank, where he served, how long, and any information you have.

EAST SIDE.—The name Valhalla is from Scandinavian mythology, meaning the great hall of the gods, the abode of warriors. It is a place of combat but each day their wounds were healed before they sat down to feast with Odin, hence the place of immortality. It is pronounced in three syllables, "Val-hall-a," according to the third, and sounding each "a" short, as in "bat" in the last two syllables.

MODERN.—Religious affiliations of the 43 Presidents of the United States: Washington, Madison, Monroe, Gen. Wm. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, Pierce and Arthur were Episcopalians; Jackson, Polk, Buchanan, Lincoln, Cleveland, Benjamin Harrison and Wilson were Presbyterians; Johnson, Grant, Hayes and McKinley were Methodists; John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Fillmore and Taft were Unitarians; Garfield, Dis-

PUNISHED.—You are an American citizen and can vote. Register in September.

MOTHER.—You can sue and after getting judgment can get the money due the man on all jobs before it is paid.

DAILY READER.—It is given as an opinion that you can legally marry in Missouri. This refers to questions about half cousins.

MANY YEARS SUBSCRIBER.—You can raise the level of your own ground. That is probably your best and cheapest remedy.

WM. SMITH.—Apply to the Missouri Commission for the Blind in the Metropolitan Building, Grand and Olive streets.

A READER, J. G. E.—You could search the records in the Recorder's office at St. Louis. Probably the land has been sold for taxes, but it is unlikely.

ROSE.—If the dog disturbs the peace of your neighbors they might have you arrested for that, but it is unlikely.

I. H. W.—Write to your Congressman or Senator about getting the pension for a Civil War veteran.

SOFT CUSTARD SAUCE.
WHAT sauces to serve with the hot pudding, the cold dessert, shortcakes, fresh berries and fruit is the problem confronting a faithful Columbia bride. She likes to regard whipped cream as a real treat to follow a simple dinner and not just an everyday affair.

To name over the sauces that she might serve with a dessert mentioned: soft custard sauce, crushed fruit or berry sauce, hard sauce with or without fruit, foamy sauce, butterscotch and chocolate sauce (printed some months ago) and vanilla or caramel sauce.

Since the summer brings berries and fruit in profusion, the crushed fruit and the soft custard sauces are most useful. We'll begin with the soft custard sauce, three egg yolks, two tablespoons sugar, two cups sweet milk, half teaspoon vanilla.

This makes a little over two cups of yellow sauce. Any flavoring may be substituted for vanilla. A pinch of salt may be considered an addition by some.

The working kit includes a double boiler, measuring cup, tablespoon, fork, bowl. The time required in the making is about 10 minutes. The sauce should be cooled or chilled, according to the dessert it is to accompany.

Pour the milk into the upper part of the double boiler to scald. Have the water in the lower part of the boiler boiling gently. Separate the eggs, placing the yolks in a medium sized bowl and add the whites in a glass for later use. Beat the yolks with a fork and add the sugar gradually.

When the milk is scalded pour slowly over the yolks and sugar in the bowl. Mix well and then return the milk-yolks-sugar to the top of the double boiler and let cook, stirring constantly, until the sauce thickens. This takes from six to eight minutes. When the custard coats a metal spoon, it should be taken from the heat, although the time is barely six minutes.

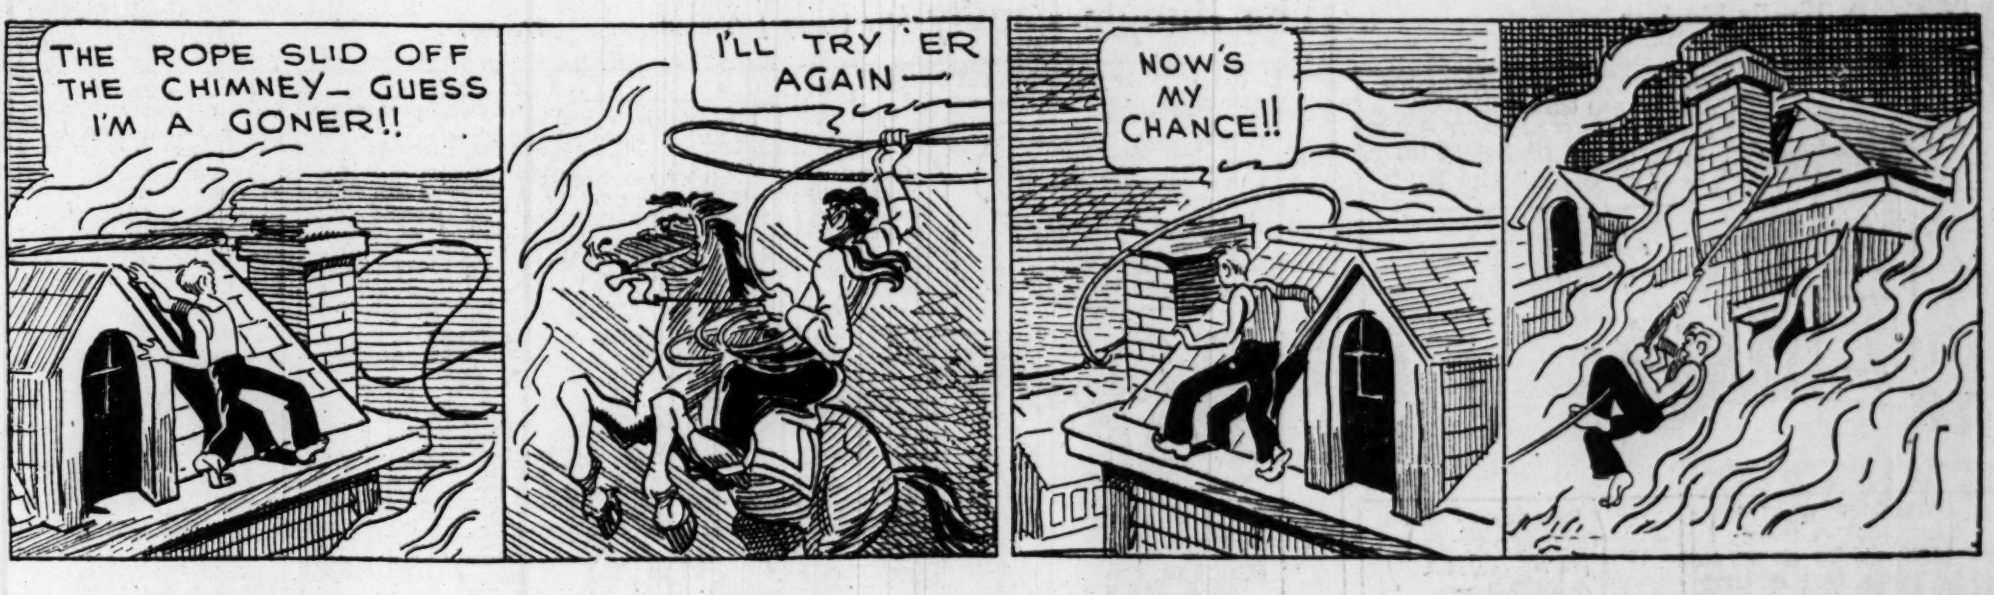

Add the vanilla, and the pinch of salt if you wish. Set aside to cool.

Now a word about the crushed fruit sauce: Crush berries or ripe fruit to measure three-fourths of a cup. Soften three tablespoons of marshmallow cream with one tablespoon hot water and mix well. Combine with the crushed berries or fruit and serve cold. Make about one cup.

Or for a slightly different fruit sauce cream one-fourth cup butter and work in slowly three-fourths cup powdered sugar. Beat long to attain a creamy consistency and add one egg white beaten stiff. When light and foamy add half

SMITH MAKING BID FOR SUPPORT OF BIG BUSINESS

Selection of J. J. Raskob as National Chairman Dictated by Him Against Party Advisers' Wishes.

OTHER MAGNATES PICKED FOR POSTS

Wall Street Banker Made Financial Chairman—Owen D. Young May Be Member of Board.

By CHARLES J. V. MURPHY, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith took into his own hands yesterday the latent policies of the Democratic party and shaped them into a definite campaign, which will bid unequivocally not only for the wet vote in the East, but ballots of big business interests in the country as well.

An out and out plea for modification of the dry law, a promised non-interference with right-minded industrial capitalism, a sympathetic attitude toward the born-belt's economic indigestion—these, Democratic leaders agreed after yesterday's developments at the National Committee meeting, automatically became the chief issues by which the Democrats hope to win the election.

The selection of John J. Raskob as chairman of the National Committee and thereby the titular director of the presidential campaign, it was learned from reliable Democratic sources, was the Governor's decision in the face of not a little opposition from certain advisers within the party.

Raskob, a Catholic, one of the most militant individuals among the 80 prominent directors of the Association Against Prohibition, a man who never has held office nor participated in partisan politics, is the Governor's own definition to the nation's electorate of issues that, to his mind, underlie the campaign.

Invasion of Republicanism. Moreover, it is, according to Democratic authorities, particularly the invasion of the political territories Republican heretofore has considered personally sacrosanct, a frank bid for the support of organized business.

In conformance to this policy, it was said, was the selection of Herbert H. Lehman, Wall Street banker, as chairman of the party's finance committee, in place of Jesse Jones of Houston, Tex. It will find further reflection in the probable appointment by Raskob of Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co. as a member of the National Committee's advisory board.

Lehman was in charge of the Governor's 1926 campaign and has a knowledge of political mechanics gained in practical experience. Young, co-author of the Dawes plan, while frequently mentioned for prominent political posts, has confined himself mainly to business. It was reported he would be favored for the post. The full committee will be announced by Raskob next week.

Although it had been confidentially (and somewhat confidentially) indicated by the more important Democratic leaders, particularly Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, that the campaign would be a strong challenge on each of the sectional issues—of prosperity in the East, prohibition in the East and Mid-West, agriculture in the West—the definition of the action yesterday came somewhat surprisingly.

Smith Controlled Meeting. As a matter of fact, the matter was not wholly adjusted until 3 a. m. yesterday when Smith, in command of a conference of party leaders in his suite in the Biltmore. It was then that it was finally decided Raskob would be the leader of the national committee.

In the conference were George W. Oliver, Tammany leader; Franklin D. Roosevelt, who nominated Gov. Smith and one of his closest advisers; Senator Joseph T. Robinson, vice presidential nominee; Justice Joseph M. Proskauer, Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri; Senator Harrison of Mississippi; Surrogate James A. Foley and Joseph Tumulty.

Even at that time, it was reported, there was a strong demand that Senator Peter Gerry of Rhode Island, who had been most prominently mentioned for the post of chairman, be the choice. Some Tammany men were of the opinion that a Tammany follower should
